MEYER GETS $1,200 JOB CREATED BY COUNCIL

State Road Inspector Selected to Post of Borough Engineer.

THREE BERTHS IN ONE

Combination of Places of Street Commissioner, Water Superintendent and Borough Engineer—No Money for New Wall Paper.

C. W. Meyer was on Monday night elected by Bellefonte Council to the recently created position of Borough Engineer. The position was created by combining the positions of Water Superintendent, Street Commissioner and Borough Engineer. The salary of Mr. Meyer was fixed at $100 per month, his services to be terminated at the pleasure of Council. Mr. Meyer recently served as a State inspector in the building of the State road through Bellefonte.

The passage of the ordinance creating the position and the selection of Mr. Meyer for the post were not accomplished until after Councilman Kirk had endeavored to have the entire matter go over, and this failing, argued against it on the ground of economy. The ordinance was passedby a vote of 5 to 3. Immediately thereafter, the joint Street and Water Committees recommended that Mr. Meyer be selected for the position and that his salary be as stated above.

Councilman Kirk at once offered objections. He demanded to know if there were other applications for the place.

"There is but one other application," explained President Harper.

"Well, whose is it?" asked Dr. Kirk.

"J. Henry Wetzel," replied President Harper.

The recommendation of the joint committee was then submitted to a vote, resulting 5 to 3 in its favor. Mr. Meyer went to work on Tuesday morning.

Before adjournment Councilman Yerger proposed that Council have the hallway of the Logan Hose House repapered, the cost of which would be about $28. The Logan Hose boys are spending considerable money, repairing and remodeling their house. New wall paper in the hall-way is badly needed. Dr. Kirk opposed this, however, angrily declaring:

"What's the use in our going ahead and contracting bills when we haven't the money to pay them. We have more bills on hand now than we can borrow money to pay."

When submitted to a vote, the proposition received 4 votes in its favor and 4 against. This necessitated a vote by President Horper, the President voting only in case of a tie. President Harper, however, had declared the motion lost before it developed that the vote on it had been a tie. No further effort was made to press the matter and it went over.

Council directed that a note for $1,000, at 5 percent. be drawn, under date of February 1, to lift a note for a like amount, also a note for $2,000, at 5 percent. to lift a note for that amount, under date of December 17, last.

William Benford Injured.

On Friday morning the wreck train from Tyrone was doing some work about one mile west of Unionville, when William Benford, one of the crew, was severely injured. He was engaged in coupling the derrick to the cabin when he was pinched between the bumpers. He was brought to the Bellefonte hospital, where Dr. George F. Harris, physician for the P. R. R., found he was suffering from a compound fracture of the bones in his right side. He also bled freely from his bowels, indicating that he had been injured internally.

After he had been hurt the young man thought he had about reached the limit of his life and the first thing he inquired for was his parents, his father being a freight conductor on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad. The young man, who is single, is getting along nicely, with every indication that he will recover.

Recital at Blanchard.

An event that will be of considerable interest at Blanchard will be a recital to be given in the Christian church, that place, on Saturday evening, next, by Miss Reid, teacher of elocution in the Lock Haven State Normal School. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Blanchard High School. The admission will be 10 and 20 cents. An evening of rare enjoyment is in store for all who attend.

METHODIST CONFERENCE

The Big Gathering Will be Held at Bloomsburg in March.

Although the date for the annual meeting of the Central Pennsylvania conference of the Methodist church is yet some weeks distant, the local congregations have already started preliminary preparations for the big event. The conference this year will be held at Bloomsburg, Columbia county, beginning Wednesday, March 15. Bishop William F. Anderson, D. D., LL., D., who has his episcopal residence at Chattanooga, Tenn., and who is one of the most widely known divines in Methodism, will have charge of the annual gathering.

It is expected that a large number of Bellefonte Methodists will attend the conference sessions and the various meetings scheduled to be held at that time. An invitation to hold the conference of 1912 in Pine Street Methodist church, Williamsport, was extended last year and will be repeated at Bloomsburg. It is expected that the invitation will be accepted and that Williamsport will have the honor of entertaining the big gathering next year. All of the Williamsport churches have joined with Pine in urging the conference to come to that city, says the Sun.

A Boy Electrocuted.

A 9-year-old son of Roland Richards, of Jersey Shore, was electrocuted on Friday in his own home, meeting death while holding an electric light that was on an extension wire. The boy was in the cellar, where Earl Woomer, a plumber, was working, and held the light for the plumber.

Womer heard a hissing sound and turned in time to see young Richards drop as a blue flame flashed on his hand and arm. Womer was also shocked when he rushed to the aid of the boy. He succeeded in quickly getting the electric current turned off, but the boy was lifeless.

It has not yet been established whether some high power wire came in contact with the domestic wire leading to the Richards home and caused the current to jump through the insulation or whether the socket became disconnected and the deadly current was grounded through the boy's body.

The unfortunate boy was a grand-son of W. S. Williams, of Martha, Centre County.

Death at Dale Summit.

Mrs. Angeline Tate, widow of late A. J. Tate, died on Sunday, last, at her late home, at Dale Summit, (Peru station), aged 77 years, 6 months and 24 days. Deceased was well and favorably known by a large circle of friends, by all of whom her passing away is sincerely mourned. She was an active member of the Lutheran, church and was a devout, Christian woman. Funeral services were held yesterday, from the Shiloh church. Surviving are the following children: Thomas, of Orange, Ill.; George, of Duquesne; Mrs. E. K. Smith, of Hart, Mich.; Mrs. Frank Lee and Wesley Tate, of Bellefonte; Andrew and William Tate, of Pine Grove Mills. Fifteen grand-children also survive.

Death of Franklin Markle.

Franklin Markle, a well known and highly esteemed resident of Blue Ball, died on Wednesday morning, of last week, at 6:30 at his home in that place. He had been in failing health for a couple of years, Bright's disease being the direct cause of his death. The deceased was born in Harris township, this County, June 28, 1842, making his age 68 years, 7 month and 4 days. With his family he resided in Blue Ball 32 years. He leaves to mourn his death his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Frank Goss, of Buffalo, N. Y. One sister, Mrs. Mary Markle, of Boalsburg, survives. The funeral took place at Blue Ball on Sunday.

Death of Mrs. Thomas.

Mrs. William Thomas, a sister of William Woodring, of Tyrone, died on Friday at her home in Anstin, Potter county. Death resulted from typhoid fever, an epidemic of which is raging in Potter county. The body was taken to Port Matilda Tuesday morning for interment. Mrs. Thomas is survived by her husband and two daughters and the following brothers: William Woodring, of Tyrone; Abraham, of Port Matilda; H. E. Woodring, of Port Matilda and G. W. Woodring, of Bluefield, West Virginia.

Some Thoroughbred Pigs.

County Commissioner H. E. Zimmerman received a couple of pigs from New Salem, Ohio, on Tuesday evening. They are thoroughbred, which shows that Mr. Zimmerman is going to keep apace with the progress of the age by helping to give to our farmers good stock.

TINY NEEDLE-POINT MAY CAUSE DEATH OF WOMAN

Mrs. George Darr, of Coleville, Victim of Peculiar Accident.

PIERCED HER ABDOMEN

Needle Pinned in Dress Pressed into Her Body and Broke Off as Mrs. Darr Lifted Wash Tub—In Critical Condition at Hospital.

Mrs. George Darr, of Coleville, is critically ill at the Bellefonte hospital, the result of a most peculiar accident. While lifting a wash tub several weeks ago, a needle in her clothing was pressed into her abdomen and then broken off. Efforts to remove the tiny piece of steel were unsuccessful, blood poisoning developed and her recovery is in doubt. No operation will be attempted, owing to the serious nature of the case.

At the time of the accident Mrs. Darr paid no attention to it. She had been washing during the morning and had used the needle to pin together some clothing at the waist. Picking up the wash tub, to empty it, she forced the needle into her abdomen. She was conscious of a sharp, pricking sensation, but beyond this she suffered no incovenience. On making an examination she discovered that the point of the needle had been broken off. She mentioned the matter to her husband, on his return home later in the day. Mr. Darr urged that she send for a physician, but his wife laughed at the suggestion.

No attention was paid to the supposedly slight injury and to all appearances it had completely healed. During the latter part of last week, however, Mrs. Darr experienced a slight pain in her abdomen. On making an examination she discovered a trace of discharge from the point where the needle had entered her body. A physician was at once called in and he advised her immediate removal to the hospital.

WEDDING BELLS RING

Miss Meyer Becomes Bride of Prof. MacIntire This Evening.

This evening a fashionable wedding will be solemnized in the Bellefonte Presbyterian church. The groom will be Prof. Walter Hoge MacIntire, who is a member of the State College faculty, and the pretty bride will be Miss Edna Elizabeth Meyer, only daughter of Hon. and Mrs. J. Calvin Meyer, of Bellefonte. The impressive ceremony will take place at 6.15 o'clock, Rev. Dr. J. Allison Platts, former pastor of the congregation officiating. The church is beautifully decorated and the wedding colors are white and pink, making a very pretty appearance.

The maid of honor will be Miss Elizabeth Young, of Wilmington, N. C., a cousin of the groom. The best man will be Prof. H. S. Fulton, of State College. The bridesmaids will be six pretty young ladies, who are as follows: Misses Roxy and Helen Mingle, Bessie and Mary Cooney, Louise Brachbill, all of Bellefonte, and Jessie Etters, of State College. The ushers will be C. W. Larson, S. M. Viele, J. W. White, S. P. Weaver and R. S. Pritchard, all of State College. Mrs. J. H. Robb, of Bellefonte, will preside at the pipe organ. A reception will be held, followed by a wedding repast, at the home of the bride on Curtin Street.

Mr. and Mrs. MacIntire will depart on the 8.16 train tonight on their wedding tour, after which they will be at home at State College. The presents to the bride were many, handsome and useful.

Death at Centre Hall.

Mrs. Henry Emerick, of Centre Hall, died on Monday morning at 11 o'clock at the age of 76 years. She had been ill with dropsy, and for the last six week had been confined to bed. Three weeks ago, to the very day, her husband passed away. Mrs. Emerick was an old resident of Centre Hall, and for many years was a consistent member of the Lutheran church. Being of a kindly disposition she will be greatly missed in the community. Surviving her are six sons, Samuel and Mervin, of Montana; George of Colorado; Newton, of Altoona; Frank, of Penn Hall, and Benjamin at home. The funeral took place this morning.

Alumni to Banquet.

On Friday evening the Centre County Alumni Association of Pennsylvania State College will hold a banquet at Ceader's banqueting parlors, on Allegheny street, Bellefonte. The occasion will be honored by the presence of General Beaver and other distinguished gentlemen. A royal time is expected.

THREATENS $5,000 SUIT FOR INJURIES TO WIFE

James Noonan, of Brant House, Wants Boro. Council to Settle.

AN ADJUSTMENT LIKELY

Councilmen Will Confer With Directors of Bellefonte Electric Co., Whose Men Dug Hole in Street into Which Mrs. Noonan Fell.

Bellefonte Borough is threatened with a suit for $5,000 damages unless an immediate settlement is made with James Noonan, proprietor of the Brant House, for injuries sustained several months ago by his wife. It will be recalled that Mrs. Noonan some time ago fell into a telegraph pole hole, in the street, near her husband's hotel. Her injuries were quite painful.

Mr. Noonan recently notified Council that he would insist on a settlement. When Council met on Monday night, last, Solicitor J. Thomas Mitchell explained that counsel for Mr. Noonan had repeated this demand. Mr. Mitchell suggested that a committee representing Council confer with the Board of Directors of the Bellefonte Electric Company, whose men dug the hole causing the accident, and that an effort be made to come to a settlement at the earliest possible date. This conference will be held before the next meeting of Council.

Where You'll Find 'Em.

There will be considerable moving about in Bellefonte by April first. John M. Bullock will move into the house, on Curtin Street, now occupied by "Don" Potter. Mr. and Mrs. Potter will store their household goods and Mrs. Potter and child will go home to Crafton, where they will remain until they are suited in a house. C. M. McCurdy will move from the Orbison house, on Curtin Street, to the Schad house, on East Linn Street. Mrs. Orbison will leave her house, on Spring Street, and move to her house on Curtin Street, now occupied by Mr. McCurdy. William Hunsinger will move from Curtin Street into the John Harrison property, on Bishop Street. G. C. Lykens and family, of Scotia, will occupy the house when it is vacated by the Hunsingers. John D. Sourbeck will move from Bishop Street to the rooms now occupied by Dr. John Sebring, in the Garman property, on the corner of High and Spring Streets. William Witmer, of Hunter's Park, will move into the house vacated by the Sourbecks. Dr. Sebring will move into the D. Z. Kline house, on Spring Street. Paul D. Sheffer will move from the Hamilton house, on Allegheny Street, to the Hastings house, on Spring Street, now occupied by W. T. Royer. Harry E. Fenlon will move from the Bush House to the Hamilton house, now occupied by the Sheffers. Thomas Murphy will move from Lamb Street into the house on Curtin Street, recently occupied by Miss Sarah Collins. Mrs. James B. Lane has rented the house on High Street, occupied by M. I. Gardner, who will move back to his residence on the corner of Spring and Howard, recently occupied by Emil Joseph. Rush Larimer will move to the McClure property, on Logan Street. John Larimer will move from East Bishop Street into the Heinle house, on the same street, now occupied by Jack Decker. C. Y. Wagner will move from the F. H. Thomas property, on Willowbank Street, into the Samuel Diehl property, on the same thoroughfare. Thomas Rishel and bride will occupy the hohse vacated by Mr. Wagner. Ed. Gheret will move into the house on Bishop Street, now occupied by W. D. Zerby, who will move to the flat over Ceader's Store. Herman Miller will move from the J. K. Barnhart property, on Thomas Street, into the house now occupied by Edward Gheret. Dr. Edith Schad will move from the Zeller, house, on Howard Street, into the house on Spring Street, now occupied by Mrs. N. D. Orbison. Earle C. Tuten will move into the R. R. Chambers property, on East Linn Street. John Watson will move into the house on Penn Street now occupied by Mr. Tuten. William Lyon will move from Howard Street to Penn Street into the Dorman house, now occupied by John Watson. Benjamin Brown will move from the Decker house, on Lamb Street to Beaver Street. Eddie Hill will move from Crider's house, on Lamb Street, into the house now occupied by Benjamin Brown. Ray Hoy has moved from Thomas Street to the Twitmire house, on Water Street. Ralph Hazel will move from the flat, above W. T. Twitmire's Store, to the S. A. McQuistion house, on Thomas Street, now occupied by Maurice Otto, who will move to Niagara Falls.

LOCAL S. S. INSTITUTE

An Interesting Session Was Held in Bellefonte on Monday.

A local institute for Sunday School workers of the Bellefonte district and the officers of the County Association was held in the Bellefonte Presbyterian church chapel on Monday morning and afternoon, last. The morning session was called to order by the secretary, L. W. Nuttall, of Philipsburg. In the absence of the president, Professor C. L. Gramley, Rev. Dr. A. M. Schmidt was chosen to preside at the seesions. Mrs. M. J. Baldwin, State superintendent of elementary grade work, gave a very helpful talk at the morning session on "The Front Line Work." She said that ten points of excellence are required to bring any County to the "Front Line." Centre County, she added, lacked three points—50 percent. of the schools of the County must have cradle roll departments; 30 per cent. must have home departments, and 20 per cent. must have teachers' training classes.

At 2.30 o'clock Miss Baldwin spoke very helpfully about the various phases of the primary grades and later conducted a conference on the same subject. It was decided to hold the forty-second annual County Convention at Aaronsburg, August 21 and 22, 1911. The Executive Committee adopted the following points for recognition by individual schools:

1.—Monthly teachers' meeting.
2.—Cradle roll.
3.—Home department.
4.—Teachers' training classes.
5.—Report to County Secretary.
6.—Offering to County Association.
7.—Delegate to District Convention.

Every district in the County attaining the standard of ten points, as required for front-line schools in the State, will be entitled to recognition at the annual County Convention. On April 17-22, 1911, Miss Robinson, one of the State field workers, expects to visit and address as many as possible of the district meetings. The schedule for this trip will be published soon.

Injuries Proved Fatal.

Benjamin Gordon, of Bellefonte, died on Monday night, last, in the hospital, and the circumstances surrounding his death are exceptionally sad. Tuesday afternoon of last week he was scalded on the back and legs while cleaning, or rolling, the flues in an engine at the round house of the Bellefonte Central Railroad, at Coleville. It was thought at first the injuries were merely skin deep, and could be quickly healed, but they proved to be of a fatal character. The deceased would have been 42 years old on the 27th of this month. He was the son of the late Henry Gordon who, for years, was employed at the home of the late Col. James P. Coburn. He was a hardworking man and his death is mourned by a large number of friends. He is survived by a widow and the following children: Henry, of Pittsburg, John, Rebecca, Eva, Marie and Sarah, at home. The latter three ranges from 6 to 2 years. The family reside in the Brown Row, near Lingle's foundry and machine shop. The death of the husband and father leaves the family in rather destitute circumstances. Mr. Gordon was at one time a member of Co. B, 5th Regt., N. G. P., and was with the boys at Chickamauga, Tenn., during the Spanish-American War. He was a member of the order of Red Men, but on account of not having permanent employment was compelled to withdraw. He, however, was about to pay up his dues and be re-instated again but the fatal accident overtook him before he had this accomplished. The funeral took place this morning at 10 o'clock, and on account of his serving in the National Guard, in time of war, a firing squad from Co. L, 12th Regt., attended and fired three shots over his grave.

Would Soak the Autoists.

Owners of automobiles are much interested in the report that Senator McNichol, of Philadelphia, has made known to some of his friends that he is to propose a bill in the Legislature, which will provide a tax of $100 a year on all autos in Pennsylvania. This was brought to the attention of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation at the meeting in Philadelphia last week, and Secretary Andrews, of Scranton, says they have decided to fight the measure. At the present time autoists are made to pay a tax of eight $5, $10 or $15 a year, according to the horse power of the car they are using. This does not go to any road fund and for that reason the autoists think the amount is sufficient. They would not be opposed to paying $100 a year if a large portion of it were placed in a fund for the building and maintaining of good roads, but this would not be done if Senator McNichol's plans are carried out.

HUNTERS' LICENSE BILL SHOULD BE SCOTCHED

Scheme to Tax Each Hunter $1 a Year is Unfair and Unjust

OBJECTIONABLE TO ALL

"The Republican" Suggests that Every Hunter Write to Senator Alexander and Rep. Meyer Urging that Bill be Killed.

And now it is proposed having Legislature pass a bill taxing every man and boy in Pennsylvania $1 a year before he may enjoy the privilege of hunting for game of any kind. Truly, there is a job on hand for the fool killer.

The bill provides that every hunter be required to take out a license, for which he shall pay $1, and furthermore, pay an additional $1 for each year in which he wants to hunt. On the face of it, the bill should be laughed out of the halls of the Legislature

"The Republican" believes that it reflects the sentiment of the men and boys in Centre County when it says that the bill is unfair, unjust and entirely without reason. We regard it as a senseless and entirely uncalled-for burden and one that would, for the most part, fall upon those least able to bear it,

Under the proposed law, even though a man owned the land on which he desired to hunt, he would first have to take out a license, pay over his $1 and be mighty sure that it was renewed at the end of the year. For a violation of any one of several dozen regulations embodied in the bill, the hunter would be liable to immediate arrest and detention and confiscation of his property unless he were able to promptly pay a large and extortionate fine. He would at all times be subject to examination by spying game wardens and required to produce his license on demand.

State Game Commissioner Kalbfus is given as the person fathering the hunter's license bill. We are quite sure that nobody in Centre County would have the slightest objection to Mr. Kalbfus paying $1 or $100 for the privilege of hunting within the borders of the State. We are equally certain that Mr. Kalbfus is entirely out of tune with the mood of the tax payers of the County. What the tax paver wants and is entitled to is not schemes to increase taxation, but common sense legislation that will reduce taxation.

"The Republican" offers the suggestion that every man and boy in Centre County who is opposed to being taxed for the privilege of hunting shall write a letter to that effect to Representative J. C. Meyer, Bellefonte, Pa., or care the Legislature, Harrisburg, Pa., or to State Senator Joseph Alexander, Harrisburg, Pa.

Wedding at Fillmore.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Rumberger, near Fillmore, was the scene of a quiet but very pretty wedding on Thursday morning, February 2, at 10 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Sudie Lenore Rumberger, was united in marriage with James Earle Crust. The beautiful ring ceremony was used, and after receiving the hearty congratulations of all present, Mr. and Mrs. Crust departed on a brief wedding tour to Holidaysburg and other places. On their return they will be "at home" at the residence of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Crust.

Basket Ball Game.

If you are desirous of putting in an enjoyable evening, go to the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A., on Friday evening and witness the basket ball game between the Bellefonte Academy and the Williamsport High School teams. There will be lots of fun and excitement. Game called at 8:30 o'clock; admission 25 cents.

MRS. JOHN K. TENER

Glad to Take up Her Residence Among Harrisburg People.

The following article, headed with a picture of Mrs. John K. Tener, appeared in a recent issue of the Harrisburg Telegraph:

"To make my part of the administration the very best I can and to uphold my husband in his part of it is the only ambition I have as the wife of the Governor of Pennsylvania," says Mrs. John K. Tener, the new mistress of the Executive Mansion.

"It is eight years since the people of Pennsylvania have welcomed the wife of a governor, for Governor Stuart was unmarried, and everyone is anxious to know just what Mrs. Tener is like and what she is going to do in a social way during her four years' reign. Tall, well built, of dignified bearing, large brown eyes, brown hair and a most captivating manner Mrs. Tener is the very embodiment of 'the joy of living,' and will surely win the hearts of the people by her sunny disposition and infinite tact.

"As a young girl Mrs. Tener was Miss Harriet Day, of Haverhill, Mass., marrying Mr. Tener in October, 1889, and residing for a year and a half afterward in Pittsburg. Later they went to Charleroi, where Mr. Tener opened the First National Bank. A woman of varied interests she has been active in church and charity work and the chairman of the Juvenile Court Committee in Charleroi for some time. As the 'great lady' of the town Mrs. Tener was at the head of all social affairs and arranged dances for the younger set, in which she delighted to participate. Both the Governor and Mrs. Tener are members of the Episcopal church and will attend St. Stephens' during their residence in Harrisburg. While Mrs. Tener was in Harrisburg only once before, she is delighted with what little she has seen of the place and has heard much of the hearty welcome to be given her by Harrisburg people with whom she will be so closely connected.

"A residence in Washington during her husband's term as Congressman has especially fitted her for the position to which she has been called, and the social life at the Mansion will receive an impetus which it has not had since the Hastings and Stone administrations. Mrs. Tener has made no special plans for a social campaign but says the regulation official receptions will be given and later many small ones arranged. She will have the same 'at home' days as Miss Stuart, the first and last Wednesday of each month, and will make the affairs really social instead of the formal ones so often encountered in official circles.

Mrs. Tener loves to entertain and delights not in crowds but in the little parties and dinners where one can become more intimately acquainted with one another. While the Governor and Mrs. Tener have no children there are many nieces and nephews who will make frequent visits and dances and various events will be given during their stay.

"Mrs. Tener is an excellent housekeeper and much interested in that part of her domain, and has brought with her from Charleroi many of her household treasures, which will give a touch of homeness to the living rooms of the mansion. She is a well dressed woman, her costumes being a part of her and always in excellent taste."

Ferguson High School Banquet.

The pupils of the Ferguson township high school will hold their annual banquet and entertainment in the I. O. O. F. hall at Pine Grove Mills, on Friday evening, Feb. 17, at 8 o'clock. The program follows:

Music; opening address, Foster Musser; recitation, Grace Elder; music; recitation, Margaret Glenn; recitation, Bryan Smith; recitation, Viola Burwell; solo, Bertha Smith.

The pupils will also produce the farce, Hons von Smash. This will be followed with an address by Prof. L. P. White.

Orders Baer's Cows Killed.

In his report for January, Milk and Meat Inspector Fetteroff, of Reading, stated that he tested twenty head of cattle belonging to George F. Baer, president of the Reading Railway Company, to ascertain whether they were afflicted with tuberculosis. Eleven of the herd reacted and were killed under the supervision of a representative of the State Live Stock Sanitary Board.

A total of 7,500 pounds, of meat was condemned and destroyed during the month.

Light Prices Lowered.

The Lock Haven Gas company has reduced the price of gas from $2.00 and $1.50 per thousand feet to $1.50 and $1.25 according to the quantity consumed and the Electric Light company has reduced the price of electric light to all who use from 200 to 300 kilowats to 7 cents a kilowat and those using over 300 kilowats to 6 cents a kilowat.

This substantial reduction will, no doubt, induce others to wire their homes or business places for electricity or pipe them for gas.—Express.

Events Recalled By Quaint Old Papers

The late John Blair Linn wrote many interesting things in his busy and fruitful lifetime. His manuscripts entitled "Random Notes of a Country Lawyer" are written in such a delightfully personal and strictly informal way as to carry with them a charm that is lacking in so many historical articles.

In a quaint and much valued volume, known as "Now and Then," published some years since, Mr. Linn wrote the following:

Gen. Philip Benner had considerable litigation in his day, notably with his neighbor, Jacob Houser, who, as his tombstone says "came to Spring Creek in 1788, and died February 14, 1832, aged 72." The General died at "Rock Works," close by, July 27, 1832, aged 70.

The latter took great pride in Centre County, and no doubt deemed it his duty to keep the legal mill supplied with grist. Mr. Houser's grandson told me that on one occasion the suits between Houser and Benner were about ending because his grandfather could not raise the cash to fee his lawyer and pay costs, whereupon General Benner promptly loaned him the money.

The General was a Quaker by descent and used the Friends language; however, he contributed liberally to the support of the Presbyterian Church, in Bellefonte. There come a day in the latter church when the use of Watts' Hymns was called for by the "new lights." William Petrikin, Esq., (father of the late Gen. William A. Petrikin, of Muncy,) a native of Scotland and an ardent Presbyterian, was strongly for David's "varsion" of the Psalms, and drew up a protest against a change and circulated it among the people. Meeting General Benner one day he asked him to sign the paper. General Benner's forensic experience had made him well acquainted with the abilities of David Watts, the lawyer, and had taught him to be wary of signing a paper he had not read. "Yes, William, I will do anything for the good of the church; but, William, what is this paper about?" Esquire Petrikin replied that some "irreverent people" in the congregation wished to change the Psalms of David in use for Watts' "varsion." "Well! well!" said General Benner. "Now, William, of course thee knows more about this matter than I do; but I know Mr. Watts to be a very great man, but who is this man David?"

The same congregation was largely in arrears with the minister's salary. Eight hundred dollars salary was due, and an "emergency" meeting of the congregation was called. Hamilton Humes was made chairman, and Mr. Linn read a paper in the meeting offering to forgive $300 of the debt. Governor Curtin, then a young man, arose in great indignation and said it was an outrage to accept Mr. Linn's proposal; that the whole sum should be made up and paid him at once, and followed with an offer to subscribe fifty dollars. Hamilton Humes said, "I will give one hundred dollars." After some further subscriptions an old farmer of the neighborhood, of well known ability, arose and said he would subscribe five dollars. After a canvass of the people in attendance it was found there was not enough subscribed, whereupon the same old farmer arose and said it would be a good thing to double our subscriptions: "for my part I am ready to do so." Then the chairman, Hamilton Humes, took the floor. "How liberal some men are getting to be!" said Mr. Humes. "Double our subscriptions! yes! Did it not make you cry, Jamie, to subscribe five dollars? You always want to pay in trade. You will give the minister a hog so poor that it can hardly walk, when he would have to buy a fat one to fry it in. You will bring a load of wood to town, and after hawking it through the streets, and nobody will buy, you take it down and give it to the minister on your stipends," etc., etc. After these concluding remarks the subscriptions proceeded satisfactorily.

While prepared to honor the coming requisition for Governor in the person of Gen. Daniel H. Hastings, Bellefonte's share of Governors has thus far been only half a dozen; though I may have missed some in court, not being a very old resident myself. Taken in order of residence, Robert J. Walker (1806 to 1814) became Governor of Kansas in 1857; A. G. Curtin, Governor of Pennsylvania, 1861; William F. Packer (1822 to 1825), Governor of Pennsylvania, 1858; John Bilger (1830 to 1834), Governor of California, 1852; William Bigler (1830 to 1833), Governor of Pennsylvania, 1852; James A. Beaver, Governor of Pennsylvania, 1887. Three of them were graduates of printing offices. Packer served his apprenticeship in the office of the Bellefonte Patriot, Henry Petrikin, editor and proprietor: William Bigler in the office of the Centre Democrat, John Bigler editor and proprietor. Times then were hard with printers as well as preachers, but William Bigler had pluck. He managed to get possession of a second-hand press and some half worn type and employed a man to wagon them over the mountains to Clearfield, himself walking the whole way behind the wagon. When they arrived he lacked five dollars to pay the wagoner, so he pulled off the plush vest he wore and gave it for pay, and in a few days the Centre Democrat made its appearance

In olden times there was no town clock in Bellefonte, but the hour of 11 A. M. was publicly known from the fact that William Fisher, who lived some miles up Bald Eagle Valley, invariably made his appearance in Bellefonte at that hour on his way to Quaker meeting. He died July 2, 1845, aged ninety-three years, and of course Bond Valentine, Governor Curtin and Benjamin Bennett, went to the funeral up Bald Eagle Valley. Ben. Bennett was a noted hotel keeper and stage proprietor, running a line of stages which ran over the Allegheny Mountains to Erie, &c. William Underwood built wagons and stages, many of which succumbed to the fierce driving of Bennett's Jehu-like drivers. In consequence there were some lawsuits between Ben. and William Underwood based on the alleged imperfection of William's workmanship. In the absence of any one else to conduct the burial services at the grave, Friend Underwood made an address, deploring the loss and enumerating the sterling qualities of the "deceased," adding in closing, "the dead to rest from their labors and their works do follow them." "If that is so," said Ben. Bennett to Bond Valentine, sotto voce, "Bond, you will hear the dangest rattling of old stages down this turnpike after Billy's coffin when he is buried ever you heard."

Another noted tavern keeper in Bellefonte was Henry Furey. He waa fond of a game of euchre, and was eager to bet when he supposed he held a good hand. They were playing in the back room and the cards had been dealt, when Henry was called to the bar by some thirsty traveler. He laid down his cards, telling them to await their return. The party concluded to give him a good hand, and fixed up his cards accordingly. Henry came back, scanned his cards and was eager to bet very high. After some demure his bet was taken and one of them led a card which caused the loss of Henry's ace (his other cards were all trump). The game proceeded and they took all Henry's trumps with higher suit. Henry in amazement at the loss of his heavy wager put both hands to his face and cried, "Gentlemen! gentlemen! have pity; I am not in my right mind."

Held up Taft's License.

John K. George, state motor vehicle commissioner, of Maryland, refused to give President Taft credit for $42.

"He's president, I know," said Mr. George, "but all automobilists look alike to me. The law exempts vehicles owned by the state of Maryland and the local government in Maryland, but nothing is said about the United States."

President Taft, through his secretary, Charles D. Norton, has sent to Commissioner George application for the licenses of four motor cars and three chauffeurs. Mr. Norton sent the application on the regular blank but enclosed no remittance. The cars are said to be government-owned, and Mr. George thinks that the president expects to get the licenses without paying.

So the commissioner directed that a letter be sent the president's secretary, notifying him that the licenses will be forwarded as soon as the remittance is received. A bill was inclosed with the letter. Thus far there has been no response.

"I might trust the president of the United States for the amount," said Mr. George, "but he expects to get the licenses for nothing. So I'll wait till I get the cash.

"Furthermore, I have written to the sheriff of Montgomery county and told him to let no man without a license escape. He let the vice president off, but I don't want that to happen again. Princes, potentates and vice presidents all look alike to me in this automobile business."

The Governor of Maryland, on learning of the facts, directed that the licenses for the President be issued at once.

Wedding Near Howard.

A pretty home wedding was that on Sunday, last, when Miss Sarah F. Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Moore, became the bride of Albert T. Butler. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, west of Howard. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Butler and for some time past has been in the employ of Mr. Moore on the latter's farm. The bride is a splendid young lady and will make Mr. Butler a good wife. The happy young couple start their married life with the congratulations and best wishes of all.

OUR GROWING APPETITE

Not that We Eat More, but that There Are More of Us Eating.

In 1889 the American hen laid eggs in sufficient numbers during the calendar year to amount to seventeen dozen for each inhabitant of the United States. Omitting all thought of adding a single egg to the individual share of eggs, but merely to maintain the 1900 proportion of eggs to population the hens of the United States in 1910 must be laying annually 221,000,000 dozen more eggs than they laid in 1899.

The per capita product of milk in the year 1889 was 65.6 gallons per annum. To maintain this per capita for the benefit of our increase of population, says the Atlantic, the milk supply in the year 1910 must exceed that of 1899 by 1,242,800,000 gallons.

To maintain butter, of which the per capita amount produced in 1899 was 14 pounds, at the same per capita in 1910 the aggregate production must exceed the former figure by 182,000,000 pounds.

Of potatoes, that other staple of human consumption, the per capita product at the last census was about four bushels; hence in 1910 to maintain the potato supply for our newcomers but not to increase it for the community to the extent of even one potato each (one potato apiece means approximately 180,000 bushels), there must be raised 52,000,000 bushels more of this homely but useful vegetable than were reported in 1899.

What this product means is best noted by observing the entire potato crop as reported at the last census of the states of California, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Maryland and North Carolina.

Groundhog Sees Shadow.

Mr. Groundhog came out of his subterranean home on Thursday and frolicked around for many hours before the sun peeped from behind the clouds, showing the little animal his shadow and driving him back to his hole, thus giving assurance to superstitious folks that we are going to have six weeks more of winter. Until late in the morning it looked as though Arctomyx Monax, as the animal is known to the world of science, would not see his shadow, as the sky had been overcast all day, but about 11 o'clock the dense clouds were dissipated and the bright sunbeams fell upon the little creature.

If the groundhog had not seen his shadow on February 2, the tradition says the end of the winter would have been assured, and henceforth he would have made his daily forage in quest of the first tender shoots of herbage that would spring up before the balmy advent of spring. As the matter stands now, he will continue to fast until the middle of March. George S. Bliss, the United States weather forecaster, has no faith in the groundhog as a weather prophet. "It is ridiculous," he said, "for people to believe that the groundhog could know what is going to happen for six weeks in the future, when with all the scientific knowledge resulting from years of study and observation men are unable to tell accurately the kind of weather that will prevail from one day to another."

It is said that some of the women on Curtin Street, Bellefonte, were praying that the pesky little animal would not see his shadow.

Mr. Taft's Advice.

"If I were advising a young man in this county as to his future profession I should say to him that there was probably greater opportunity for real reward in assiduity, industry, attention to business and scientific investigation in the profession of agriculture than in any other profession this country affords.

"The tendency toward the country and country life is a tendency that we ought to encourage. It tends toward sane, philosophical and quiet consideration of the problems of life. It takes out that nervous exhaustion of energy; it takes out the gambling spirit; it takes out of the life of the citizen that hurry and rapidity that carries men quickly to their grave, and it makes for the happiness of individuals and families far more than any trade or profession that brings you into the great maelstrom of city life."

To feel strong, have good appetite and digestion, sleep soundly and enjoy life, use Burdock Blood bitters, the great system tonic and builder.

Bar Dollar Gowns.

Graduation gowns to cost not more than one dollar each are to be popular among teachers and parents in Pittsburg the coming June. Hundreds of young women are in tears, however, over the stand taken by the parents and principals, and many warmly declare that they will not try to pass the examination for graduation if they cannot wear something better than a "cheap one dollar dress."

The principal reason for this move appears to be that a great percentage of those who graduate really cannot afford to spend $25 to $50 on a graduation dress, as do the richer girls, and there have been heart aches over graduation, and it has been decided that there must be a uniform cheapness.

Vivien Gould Said to Be Engaged to Baron Decies.

© 1910, by American Press Association.

MISS VIVIEN GOULD.

The engagement of Miss Vivien Gould, second daughter of George J. Gould, and Baron Decies of England probably will be announced this winter, according to friends of the Gould family. While no member of the family will confirm the report, none will deny it, and it is a fact that Baron Decies is now a visitor at Georgian court, the magnificent country place of the Goulds at Lakewood.

Vivien Gould is to make her debut this winter. She is about half the baron's age. Although she was a maid of honor for her sister Marjorie when the latter married Tony Drexel, she was not officially "out," and her formal introduction to society, which probably will be in January, will surpass anything Mrs. Gould has ever given.

John Graham Hope Horsely Beresford, Baron Decies, succeeded to the title only a short time ago through the death of his brother. He will be forty-four years old on the 5th of next month. He is a distinguished soldier, being lieutenant colonel of the Seventh hussars, and won his D. S. O. in the campaign against the Mad Mullah in Somaliland. He served in the Matabele war of 1896 and in the Boer war four years later.

His peerage was created at the beginning of the nineteenth century in favor of the younger brother of the first Marquis of Waterford, who was the Protestant archbishop of Tuam.

Baron Decies is a noted cricket and polo player and is keenly interested in hunting and racing. He first met Miss Gould, it is said, at the home of Lord and Lady Maidstone, where she went on a visit with her sister, Mrs. Drexel.

Mrs. Glyn at Home.

Mrs. Elinor Glyn, the author of "His Hour" and "Three Weeks," is in private life Mrs. Clayton Glyn, the wife of an English squire and justice of the peace. She is described by those who know her as being very striking in appearance—tall and slender, with a very white face surrounded by masses of auburn hair. She dresses with an apparent desire for complete self extinction, for what one sees of her face, even when sitting next to her at luncheon, is the most fugitive of glimpses. She applies the same elusive tactics to her personality, and one acquaintance of hers declares that it must require successive cycles of lives fully to understand her. She is said to be addicted to spiritualism, to be sensitive to unfair criticism and to love luxury. She writes her books reclining on a soft sofa, not far—in winter—from a roaring fire. By preference she writes at night, and a favorite Persian cat is usually present. She is said to be subtle, charming and elusive. She tells one amusing story about herself. An American illustrated paper in publishing her photograph referred to her as a lady who was eternally trying, but without success, to get into society. Unfortunately the photograph they published showed her in the robes in which she was presented at court.

Don't Give Up Hope.

It is never too late to learn. A woman eighty years old has just matriculated at the Ohio State university. Such a tardy defiance of pickles and fudge almost breaks the record.

Unavoidable Delay.

A woman went before the magistrate and modestly inquired:

"Your honor, can I have a warrant for the arrest of my husband? He boxed my ears yesterday."

"Certainly, ma'am," replied the judge. "I will make out a warrant on the ground of assault and personal injuries."

"Can I fetch the warrant in about a month?"

"In a month? Why won't you take it at once?"

"Please, your honor, when my husband slapped my face I took my rolling pin and hit him on the head so that he had to be removed to the hospital. The doctors say, however, that he will be on his legs again in a month."

Discrediting an Astrologer.

A certain king, says a tale from the Persian, asked an astrologer, "How many years of life remain to me?" The wise man replied, "Ten." The king became very despondent and betook himself, as one stricken with a sickness, to his bed. His vizier, who possessed great wisdom, sent for the seer and in the king's presence asked him, "How many years have you to live?" He replied, "Twenty." The vizier ordered that he should that very hour be executed in the king's presence. The king was satisfied and commended the sagacity of his minister and no longer attached any importance to the astrologer's saying.

Getting Into German.

In the use of legal terms the German lawyer's gain in a saving of number of words over our equivalent expressions seems to be lost in multiplication of syllables in the words used by him. For example, he says "Zuruckbehaltungsrecht" for "right of lien" and "gesammtgutsverbindlichkeiten" for "liabilities of common property." What an awful word he must have as an equivalent for our "imprescriptibility."—Docket.

Mrs. Alma Powell Gives Femininity Dress Reform and Comfort.

MRS. ALMA WEBSTER POWELL IN HER NEW COSTUME.

Here is a case of pure love of her kind. Mrs. Alma Webster Powell makes an appeal to women to cast off the shackles of the hobble skirt and all absurdities of la mode and adopt the costume of common sense which she has designed for them. It is called a comfort costume and is made on princess lines that reach to the ankles and worn without corsets and with bloomers. To add style, without which no dress was ever a success, the material is handsome black velvet trimmed with hand embroidery of jet. For street wear boots and a military cape are added of black satin. In the house the frock is buttoned down to the feet.

The little hat pretty Mrs. Powell wears with the costume is made like the cap worn by officers in the Austrian army and can be fashioned by any woman for the modest sum of $1.

Every part of this attire from cap to twelve dollar boots is attractive, sane and simple in effect. Mrs. Powell in advocating this reform costume is entirely unselfish in her aim, for in doing so she gives up a wealth of Paris hats and gowns.

This costume if adopted by womankind will stamp out much sartorial envy, hatred, malice and all uncharitableness, as all costumes are made on the same style. It will remove class distinction, and the only bone of contention will be in the quality of the material used; otherwise Mrs. Rhinestone will be on an equal footing, so far as appearances are concerned, with Mrs. Diamond.

Mrs. Powell in her comparatively short life has played many parts. She is a singer of note; she is a suffragette and a law student—in fact, she is interested in everything that tends to public good, and her brain is a very active piece of machinery.

The inventor has adopted the dress herself, and she could wear so many smart gowns if she had the welfare of women less at heart.

The tame rabbit is now milady's pet. It's an English fad, and the up to date rabbit is in evidence at the 5 o'clock tea table.

The New Shoe Buckle.

Cut steel and rhinestone predominate in the shoe buckle for decorating the evening slipper this season. In the cut steel, which has a very refined appearance, the designs are very beautiful. The buckles made of this material seem to be the leading ones.

They are made oblong and large, and, though this is actually the choice among the metals, there are other sizes and other metals still available, for, though it is quite new, it does not exclude any of the others that with some are still popular.

Rhinestone buckles are favored next to steel, and there is a wide variety of these from which to make a choice.

Small and large ornaments, square and round ornaments, oblong and star shaped ornaments—in fact, in the rhinestone one can get an ornament in almost any shape a person desires.

MIGHTY ARCTURUS.

If This Star Were Our Sun It Would Instantly Consume the Earth.

The parallax of a star is its angular displacement as seen from two opposite points on the earth's orbit. The base line employed in this gigantic species of surveying is 186,000,000 miles in length, but the calculation is reduced to the semidiameter of the orbit. The results are at the same time amazing and instructive.

Let us take the famous star Arcturus, often called the "star of Job" because in the Old Testament the Almighty is represented as saying to the unfortunate patriarch, who maintains a certain dignity in spite of his helplessness and his sufferings, "Canst thou call forth Arcturus and his sons?"

Many conflicting measures of the parallax of Arcturus have been made, but the latest made at Yale seem more probably correct than their predecessors. They fix the parallax at 0.066 seconds—i. e., sixty-six one-thousandth of a second of arc. From this it is easy to calculate the distance of the star. It comes out at nearly 290,000,000,000,000 miles (two hundred and ninety trillion miles). This is more than 3,000,000 times the distance of the earth from the sun.

Having this distance, we can calculate the actual amount of light shed by Arcturus, or, in other words, its actual brightness as compared with that of our sun, on the supposition that both were at the same distance from us. We thus find that Arcturus exceeds the sun as a light giver about 2,500 times! It is a sun 2,500 times brighter than ours.

Put the earth as near to Arcturus as it is to the sun and all life would disappear from its surface as if swept off by a blast of inconceivable heat. The summer temperature would rise to tens of thousands of degrees. The oceans would boil away. Vegetation would be burned up in a twinkling. The eyes of living beings would char in their sockets. The plains and mountains would burst into flame. Minerals would run in molten streams. There would be no comfort for a living world nearer to Arcturus than about 4,000,000,000 miles. If he has planets he must keep them at a respectful distance. And yet nearly 300,000,000,000,000 miles from him we can look into his blazing eye and see only a bright star.

Still, Dr. Alfred Russel Wallace maintains that this little earth, this tiny attendant of a tiny sun, is the only seat of intelligent life—outside of the misty midregion of disembodied spirits—that the universe contains, and Dr. Wallace is a learned man. But his learning is not that which astronomy offers.—Garrett P. Serviss in New York American.

ALL MY PIMPLES GONE

Girl Tells How a Blotchy Skin Was Cleansed By a Simple Wash.

"I was ashamed of my face," writes Miss Minnie Pickard of Altamahaw, N. C. "It was all full of pimples and scars, but after using D. D. D. Prescription I can say that now there is no sign of that Eczema, and that was three years ago."

D. D. D. has become so famous as a cure and instant relief in Eczema and all other serious skin diseases, that its value is sometimes overlooked in clearing up rash, pimples, blackheads, and all other minor forms of skin impurities.

The fact is, that while D. D. D. is so penetrating that it strikes to the very root of Eczema or any other serious trouble, the soothing Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients are so carefully compounded there is no wash for the skin made that can compare with this great household remedy for every kind of skin trouble.

D. D. D. is pleasant to use, perfectly harmless to the most delicate skin, and absolutely reliable. A 25-cent bottle will give you positive proof of the wonderful effectiveness of this great remedy.

The Poultry Yard.

Keep the dust box supplied with nice clean dust, and see that the grit box is never empty.

Keeping many breeds is a poor way to succeed. Get down to one or two varieties and give them the best of care.

If the hens were compelled to work a little harder these days for what grain they get, it would be a good thing for them.

As the new corn gets dry and hard it is safe to feed more than when it was soft and green. It is more easily digested and gives better results.

Never feed meat scraps that were made of rotten meat. Good, pure feed is the the only thing that ever ought to be fed to a fowl of any kind.

During winter the drinking vessels must be emptied each evening; it is much easier to do that than it is to break a solid cake of ice in them the next morning.

If it possibly can be done, clean up the droppings each day. It is work that well repays one. Never allow this cleaning to be delayed longer than a week.

Leaving the birds to fight their own battles against lice and other enemies may save some work, but it will cost some eggs; and eggs are worth money these days.

Do not delay any longer the job of culling out the poor stock. It is a mistake to keep even a single unprofitable fowl. Have the stock up in quality rather than in quantity.

If the hens are fed hot corn for supper, they will go to bed happy these cold winter nights. Feed it just as hot as they can eat it comfortably. Shell some in a baking-pan and stir and heat it in the oven.

As the weather grows colder, increase the supply of corn. It is a heating food. But never feed it alone. A good grain mixture for winter is two parts whole corn, one part each wheat and oats; all well mixed.

Many hens never know what it is to be comfortable from one end of the winter to the other, except on a day when it thaws. You can not expect hens to do well under such conditions. To do well they must be comfortable.

The worst thing is to make poultry drink ice-cold water; chills them clear through. They must warm that water before the work of digestion can go on again. Warm the water for them—not hot, but just comfortably warm.

Start up the trap nests. They are invaluable in pointing out the productive hens as well as the drones. They make it possible, by picking out the poor layers, to get more eggs from a fewer number of hens. That is economy—it saves feed and it gives the workers more room.

It is a good rule to keep fowls indoors during rainy, snowy or windy weather. While the rains during the summer will do no harm to the fowls, the cold rains of winter are injurious. Exposing fowls to bad weather is but to invite sickness. Therefore, the more room in the hen house, the more contented will fowls be when confined.

At this time of the year colds may develop in the flock. It is always best to nip these in the bud. In the first stages a one-grain quinine pill each night for a week will be found effective. Remove the fowl to separate and dry quarters. Generally in a week the cold will have disappeared. Colds are caused by exposure, or by closely-built houses, or by overcrowded flocks, making the fowls sweat at night while on the roost and chill when they leave their perch the next morning. Have litter in the house, throwing the grain feed amongst it in the evening at feeding time, and the fowls will start to scratching the moment they get off the roost at break of day. This exercising warms up the blood and puts the fowls in good condition to appreciate and thoroughly digest the morning mash.—Farm Journal.

Organize Needlework Guild.

A movement is under way to organize in Bellefonte a branch of the Needlework Guild of America. The headquarters of the national association are at 1719 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. Mrs. Levi P. Morton, of New York, is honorary president. A number of well known ladies in Bellefonte have been asked to participate in the moment to establish a branch here and it is understood that they will consent to lend their assistance. The object of the association is to provide new garments for persons in need, especially persons who have been ill in hospitals and who do not have suitable clothing when discharged. Under the charter of the association partly-worn garments may not be accepted.

Mrs. W. H. Wilkinson and daughter, Miss Minnie, entertained a few friends at dinner on Thursday of last week.

SAVE THE TREES

An Interesting and Instructive Lecture on the Subject.

The illustrated lecture on trees, by John T. Withers, of Jersey City, N. J., in the High School auditorium on Monday night, was a pleasing success. A large number of prominent Bellefonte people were present and thoroughly enjoyed the occasion, which was both interesting and instructive.

The first few lantern slides presented showed a number of historical trees, some of which were 800 to 1000 years old. Among the trees shown was one planted by George Washington, near Mt. Vernon. Another was the Liberty Tree, at Annapolis, which is 800 years old. To preserve this tree the trunk was recently filled with eighty-six tons of concrete.

Mr. Withers' main point was to show to a Bellefonte audience how to trim trees along our public thoroughfares, also to make them last for generations. He placed a picture on the canvas showing the mistake that had been made in trimming Bellefonte trees because the person doing it was not familiar with tree culture. A limb ought never to be cut off close to the trunk, he said. The first cut should be made eighteen inches from the trunk, so that when the limb falls it will not splinter the trunk. After the limb has been sawed off flat with the trunk, he added, it should be painted. He also gave instructions as to trimming the branches above the trunks, and filling them with cement, Sometime later we may give space to explaining the preserving of the trees by Mr. Withers' method.

Quite a number of pine trees in the Union cemetery, Bellefonte, have been cut down which should have been preserved by the method prescribed by this lecturer. Our people should take enough interest in the trees that remain to have them treated so that they will remain there for the next hundred years. It can be done and it ought to be done. These are among the oldest trees in the county. Mr. Withers, who was with George T. Bush, Mrs. Calloway and others on their trip around the world, closed his lecture by throwing on the canvas pictures of some of the scenes in the various countries visited.

Good Roads Train.

The Good Roads train, under the direction of the P. R. R. and the State Highway Department, will be at Port Matilda on Thursday morning, February 16th, from 9.55 to 11.30.

The same train will arrive in Bellefonte at 12 o'clock noon, and remain here until 3 o'clock. At 1.30 o'clock a free lecture will be given in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium to which the public is cordially invited to attend. Prof. Price Jackson, of State College, and several officials of the State Highway Department, at Harrisburg, will give instruction as to the best methods of road making.

Remember this train carries with it the latest road machinery and practical road men to explain its intended use.

Every road supervisor in the county should make a strenuous effort to get to Bellefonte on that date since the instruction is free and it will be of endless value to them.

Miss Leech a Bride.

A pretty home wedding was that at Shingletown, on Wednesday evening, when Miss Margaret Edna, youngest daughter of Mrs. John Leech, became the bride of Henry N. Musser. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. I. Stonecypher. The guests were limited to the immediate families of the contracting parties. Following the wedding a delicious supper was served. The bride is a splendid young lady and is well equipped for her new position. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Musser. He is a sober, industrious young man and is to be congratulated on securing such an estimable young lady to be his companion through life.

Entertainment for Children.

What should be a pleasing entertainment for children is scheduled at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, on Friday and Saturday, February 17 and 18. It is entitled, "Bibi," a comedy of toys, and will be under the direction of Miss Elva Storey, of the Harrisburg Central Lyceum Bureau. The proceeds will be for the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool.

Death of George Fye.

George Fye, one of the oldest residents of Centre County, died on Saturday at his late home in Burnside township. He was 82 years old and was a son of Nicholas Fye, who removed from Penns Valley with other pioneer settlers and cleared and located on the land now known as the Stewart farm.

Mrs. A. O. Furst entertained at tea, from four to six, on Friday afternoon of last week.

Miss Mary Grimm departed last week for Pittsburg, where she will remain for the next five or six weeks.

Miss Bertha Strohmeier, of Centre Hall, was an over-Sunday guest at the home of Miss Smith, on East Bishop Street.

Mrs. John S. Walker, Miss McCalmont and Miss Shortlidge, entertained on Friday evening, last, at their home, on East Linn Street.

Mrs. Anna C. Woodcock returned to Bellefonte during the latter part of last week, after a visit with her son, Dr. Lee B. Woodcock, at Scranton, and also with friends in Philadalphia.

The National Flag.

The first display of the national flag at a military post was at Fort Schuyler, on the site of the present city of Rome, N. Y. The fort was besieged early in August, 1777. The garrison was without a flag, so one was made according to the prescription of congress by cutting up sheets to form the white stripes, bits of scarlet cloth for the red stripes, and the blue ground for the stars was made from a piece of the blue cloak belonging to Captain Abraham Swartwout of Dutchess county, N. Y. This flag was unfurled over the fort on Aug. 3, 1777.

The national flag was first unfurled in battle on the banks of the Brandywine Sept. 11, 1777. The flag was first hoisted over a foreign stronghold June 28, 1778, when Captain Rathbone of the American sloop of war Providence captured Fort Nassau, on the Bahama islands. Captain Paul Jones was the first man to display the American flag on an American vessel. This flag was made by the women of Portsmouth, N. H., for the Ranger, which was fitted out at that port for Captain Jones. The Ranger sailed from Portsmouth on Nov. 1, 1777.

Buried Landscapes.

One of the most curious results of geological exploration is the discovery of "buried landscapes," by which is meant parts of the former face of the earth now covered under later deposits, but yet retaining so many of their original features that the geologist can ideally reconstruct the scenes that would have been presented to the eye of man if he had been present among them. Sometimes buried landscapes exist in countries now densely inhabited. Investigation has shown that one lies beneath the region in England known as Charnwood forest. The rocky projections seen there are the peaks and aretes of a buried mountain chain belonging to the old red sandstone period. Several different phases in the history of this landscape have been traced. At one time it contained salt lakes and desert expanses. In its modern form it is a pastoral region, with barren, stony tracts and rocky eminences where the ancient mountains project through the soil.—Detroit Free Press.

Whistler as a Horseman.

Boggs, a cadet cavalry officer at West Point academy, was an assistant in the riding hall. On one occasion he overheard Whistler, who thoroughly disliked to ride, objecting strenuously to the horse brought for his use. The horse, he argued, was too heavily built and much too large for a man of his size. Whistler, with much vehemence, urged the man next him to "swap." The man with whom he wished to exchange horses was of muscular build and a "pretty generous size" and his horse a lightweight animal, so it seemed to Whistler that it would be a "most fitting exchange."

"Oh, don't swap! Don't you swap, Mr. Whistler" cried the dragoon. "Yours is a war horse, sir!"

"A war horse!" exclaimed Whistler. "That settles it. I certainly don't want him."

"Yes, you do, sir," reiterated the man. "He's a war horse, I tell you, for he'd rather die than run."—Century.

Among Those Present.

Commenting with light irony on the pretensions of a certain nouveau riche, a contributor to Paris Figaro questions whether men of this type are any sillier than those of a past generation who belonged to well known families of long descent.

"There was one of the family of Croy," this contributor writes, "who was fond of showing an old painting of Noah entering the ark and crying out:

"'Sauvez les papiers de la maison de Croy!' (Save the records of the house of Croy!)

Corrected His Error.

With the Germans the absentminded college professor is a stock source of witticisms.

One of these deeply absorbed gentlemen, sitting on a rear seat, thought he knew a person sitting in front and was about to speak to him when, the stranger by chance turning a little, the professor saw that he was mistaken.

Nevertheless, touching him on the shoulder, he remarked politely:

"You will excuse me, but you are not the person I thought you were."

About Face.

Miss Prude—I just heard that Mr. Upton had an accident—in fact, that he broke his—ah—er—limb, you know. Do you know how it happened, Mr. Jones?

Mr. Jones—Why—er—he was gathering apples, you see, and he fell from the—aw—er—that is, the leg of the tree.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Possible Remedy.

"The ocean doesn't seem to agree with you," consoled the ship's doctor, who had prescribed everything conceivable.

"Perhaps it would," moaned the other. "I haven't tried it yet."—Puck.

Talent Recognized.

"Jebbers doesn't appear to have the slightest idea of practical politics."

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum; "his assumption of ignorance on the subject proves him a most astute politician."—Washington Star.

New York and the Surf.

Few New Yorkers ever stop to think that one of that city's chief attractions is the surf. Philadelphians must go fifty-six miles to the ocean. Though the folk of Baltimore and Washington live on tidewater, they must travel for surf bathing to the capes. Boston is the only other large town on the Atlantic seaboard besides New York that has the ocean at its back door. San Francisco and Los Angeles are the only Pacific coast cities within trolley ride of ocean beach. None of the Mexican gulf cities can be compared to New York as a seaside resort, and as to New Orleans, another Mecca of the pleasure seekers, that lies more than 100 miles above the mouth of the Mississippi. But, including Coney Island and Rockaway, a good many miles of Greater New York are bounded by the ocean. This fact, just to consider the money making side of it, means an enormous revenue to the metropolis from the inland parts of the country. It is an advantage other great world centers, such as London, Paris and Berlin, do not enjoy.—Argonaut.

The Short Step Between.

"I was on an ocean liner when she ran on the rocks off the English coast some years ago," said a traveling man, "and in the panic that ensued there is one incident that stands out in my memory, illustrating the slender thread between the tragic and the ridiculous. We had a fellow on board who had managed to keep pretty well loaded all the way across, and when we struck the rocks he was in his usual condition. When everybody thought for sure we were going to the bottom he sat down at the piano in the saloon, and what do you suppose he began playing? 'Home, Sweet Home.' Somebody went to him and begged him to stop. Immediately he switched off from the doleful strains of the old song to the rollicking melody of 'Down Went McGinty.' The absurdity of the thing seemed to strike everybody at once, and a general laugh followed. The tension was relieved, and there was good order after that."

The Restaurant Piccolo.

Writing from Dresden, an American says: "There is at least one thing in a German restaurant for which one would look in vain in our country. That is the piccolo. You may think that I mean a musical instrument and that any orchestra in any country might have one of these, but you are wrong. My piccolo, the one at the restaurant, is a human being. He is a boy twelve to fifteen years old, who assists the regular waiters. He wears the regulation waiter's costume and looks funny in his spiketail coat. He is as solemn as a funeral, knows how to extract a tip and for the high privilege of retaining his place and taking his first degree as a waiter must endure much abuse at the hands of the head waiter and his underlings. He is a funny little fellow, this piccolo, who because of his appearance could never prosper in our country."—New York Tribune.

Created a New Word.

It was the third Earl Spencer who added a word to the language in consequence of a wager. The bet was that by cutting off the tail part of his overcoat he could bring into fashion overcoats so short that the skirts of the undercoat would show beneath. He won his wager, and "spencer" became the name both of that garment and of the feminine one afterward constructed in its likeness. The peerage has added more than one name to the terminology of costume. Everybody knows "Wellingtons," and the billycock hat is said by some to be really "Billy Coke," from Coke of Norfolk, earl of Leicester. But none of these examples in the sphere of clothes rivals what the Earl of Sandwich did when he contrived the slice of meat between bread as a device to enable him to go on gambling without leaving off for a meal.—London Chronicle.

Getting Acquainted.

"We hesitated about renting this place," said the woman who had just moved in, "until we learned that the families on both sides of us owned their houses. It is so unpleasant to live where the people next door are always changing and you never know what kind of neighbors you are going to have."

"Yes," responded the woman on the other side of the fence. "That's one reason why we're trying to sell our house."—Chicago Tribune.

A Bright Student.

During a recent examination in the theology of the Old Testament the following question was asked a young clergyman: "What language did Balaam's ass speak?" After a moment of thought a smile flashed across his face, and he wrote his answer. I looked at the paper. He had written, "Assyrian."—Lippincott's.

Things He Sees.

"He's a terrible drunkard, isn't he?"

"Yes, but he's a good citizen."

"How can that be?"

"Every time he has jimjams he goes to the courthouse and pays taxes on a pack of pink and blue dogs."—Cleveland Leader.

PROF. J. ANGEL.

Eyesight Specialist.

Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 22nd and 23rd.

AT BROCKERHOFF HOUSE

To my Patrons and the Public: Having become established in Bellefonte and all over the county, as a successful Eye Specialist, and through the large increase in my business, I have concluded it will be to the best interest of myself and the public to make a reduction of 25 per cent in all my charges. This will enable those who have felt they could not afford to pay former prices to secure proper treatment for their eyes at the lowest possible expense. All parents are advised who have children that go to school who are not bright in learning or their studies, should have their eyes examined and see if they need glasses. You will thereby save lots of trouble and make good scholars of them. At the Brockerhoff House Wednesday & Thursday, Feb. 22nd and 23rd.

Chesney Morrison, of Altoona, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Morrison.

Mrs. Daniel Buck is confined to her bed with bronchial trouble and is threatenrd with pneumonia.

Arthur Irwin, extra ticket agent for the P. R. R., spent Sunday with his brother, Dr. W. U. Irwin.

Andy Hall, who has been confined to his bed with stomach trouble, is reported as being somewhat improved.

The ground hog saw his shadow, so look out for six weeks more of cold weather. It has started in great shape.

Mrs. H. M. Stere and children departed on Sunday evening for Port Matilda, where they will visit Mrs. Stere's sister, Mrs. H. A. McKinney.

A new boy baby arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison, on Sunday, one week ago. Baby and mother are getting along splendidly.

A bright little girl babe has come to further brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Bird. The babe was born on February 5. Mother and child are doing well.

Forrest Gill, of Sandy Ridge, and his sister, Iona, from Altoona, were call, ed home on account of the serious illness of their father, who was in the Bellefonte hospital.

Lumen Lodge, No 639, I. O. O. F., is having quite a boom. They have taken in three new members in the last month, and there are three more to follow. Prospects are bright for still further additions to the roster.

Dr. W. U. Irwin dressed the injuries of William Benford, the young railroad brakeman, who was so seriously injured in the accident here on Friday of last week. The friends of the young man hope for his speedy recovery.

Hassel Stere departed on Saturday evening for Orange, N. J., where he has secured a lucrative position in the Thomas Edison laboratory. He will assist on experimental work on electric batteries and will be in the same building with Charles Fetterman, who went there about one month ago.

They are going down the valley, one by one. God, in His all-wise providence, has seen fit to call two more of our best known and most highly respected residents; two more have answered the final summons and have gone out from our midst and into the Great Beyond. It is an unusual occurrence for a small town to have two residents pass over the river in a single night. God's will be done on earth, as it is in Heaven.

Miss Susanna Sedgwick died at her home, at 10 o'clock, on Wednesday night of last week, after a lingering illness from pneumonia. She was the daughter of John and Sarah Hamilton Sedgwick and was born in York County, Pa., December 25, 1829, making her age 82 years, 1 month and 7 days. Her family removed from York County to Roopsburg about 65 years ago, and later located at this place, where she lived to the time of her death. Miss Sedgwick was a devout Christian woman, leading a life of purity in word, thought and deed. She was highly respected by the entire community. Her father was born in Baltimore, Md., and was the son of one of seven brothers who came to this country from England. The following brothers and sisters preceded her to the grave: Mrs. Sarah Biddle, William, Calvin and Mary Ellen Sedgwick. Surviving are the following sisters: Mrs. George W. Williams, of Martha, and Mrs. Margart Finch, of this place. Funeral services were held on Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock, from her late home, conducted by Rev. R. S. Oyler, of Milesburg. Interment was made in the upper cemetery. Rest in peace!

John M. Emerick died at his late home at a late hour on the same night that witnessed the passing away of Miss Sedgwick. He had been ill for a number of months. Although he had been failing for over a year, Mr. Emerick was able to be up and about until probably four months ago, being able to walk up town every nice day. He did not take to his bed until about three days before he died. Mr. Emerick was a kind and loving husband and father, holding the confidence and respect of all who knew him. During the time of his illness he was a patient sufferer, bearing up with great fortitude and always having a smile for those with whom he came into contact. He was a stone mason and carpenter by trade and has done practically all of the work in this vicinity. He was employed by the P. R. R. for a number of years. His last work was done on the walls of the addition to the remodeled Court House, at Bellefonte. He was the son of Samuel and Julia Winkleblech Emerick and was born August 23, 1845, making his age 65 years, 5 months and 10 days. He located here about 40 years ago and made this his home to the time of his death. On January 2, 1879, he was united in marriage with Sadie Morrison. To this happy union were born five children, for of whom, with the widow, survive. He was an active member of the Methodist Episcopal church, becoming identified with the church here in 1897. A consistent Christian gentleman, he carried his Bible with him wherever he went. The surviving children are Mrs. W. T. Peters and Mrs. P. P. Dunkle, of Pittsburg; William and Clark, at home. The following sisters also survive: Mrs. Mary Sower, of Pine: Mrs. Angeline Houseman, of Illinois; Mrs. Isaac Hetricks, of Milroy, and Mrs. Reuben Clark, of Clarksburg, W. Va. The funeral was held on Sunday, at 2 o'clock, from the late home of the deceased, and was probably the most largely attended here in recent years. Rev. R. S. Oyler, of Milesburg, officiated, and interment was made in the upper cemetery.

Port Matilda.

Zeke Fink, of Tyrone, visited friends here over Sunday.

J. M. Williams has built a nice barn in which to keep his auto.

H. H. Osman, our postmaster, is on the sick list at this writing.

John Q. Miles, of Martha, was greeting friends here on Tuesday.

Miss Nora Woodring is visiting her brother, Charles, at State College.

We have a man in our town who can put Webster in the shade when it comes to vocabulary.

Mrs. Emma Fink and little Florence Mabets, of Altoona, visited friends here for several days.

Philip Young, our barber, says that while he scrapes for a living his chickens scratch for theirs.

A cute little farmer boy has come to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Shively. Ed. is wearing a broad smile.

Samuel Osman, our up-to-date undertaker, not only knows how to handle his business, but he also knows how to eat pie.

We are having some fine winter again; good sleighing, of the old-fashioned sort. The ground hog surely saw his shadow on February 2.

Miss Edna Reese, one of our grammar school teachers, is ill at this writing. We hope to see her soon resume her duties and that her recovery may be complete.

Gilbert Eller, who has been operating a big lumber job in Muncy mountain, is making good use of the recent snow. He has several teams hauling logs through town.

Mrs. Ella Gardner has returned again to the Woodring Hotel, here. She had been sick for several weeks and during that time had been visiting friends in Tyrone and Altoona.

We see by the newspapers that in Philadelphia the courts are trying some 10-year-old gambling cases. We have an infant gambling joint in our town where the boys play the game and the citizens seem afraid to raise their hand against it.

Rev. and Mrs. H. A. McKelvey were delightfully surprised at their home at Port Matilda, on Thursday evening of last week, receiving from a large number of neighbors and other friends a handsome donation that will serve for many a day in keeping the wolf not only away from the door but quite a distance from the gate. During the evening a bountiful repast was served, which was greatly enjoyed by all present. All did justice to the feast but Philip and H. A., who never seem to eat. How about it?

Mt. Eagle.

John Bathurst recently visited his sisters, at Lock Haven.

Mrs. Al. Robertson and children spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Coder, who live on the Thomas farm, below Howard.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has had a force of men repairing the station here, the repairs being badly needed and greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Amos Lucas, of Greensburg, who has been visiting for some time at the home of her father, S. B. Leathers, departed this week for Williamsport, where she will have her eyes treated.

Austin Bathurst, who is getting along in years, made a mis-step while coming down stairs a few mornings ago, breaking his arm above the wrist. At this writing he is getting along very nicely.

Fowler.

Lots of snow again.

Sleighing parties will be the order for a while, at least.

George Walk made a business trip to Tyrone on Saturday.

Miss Hattie Fowler was a Tyrone shopper a day or two ago.

Miss Sallie Hoover recently visited her brother, at Mt. Pleasant.

The Misses Austin, of Tyrone, spent Sunday with Mrs. E. Weigleman.

Mrs. W. T. Dego spent Saturday with Mrs. Wesley Crain, at Milesburg.

Mrs. George Nearhoof spent Thursday of last week with her son, Harry, at Tyrone.

Mrs. James Goss was among those to attend the farmers' institute, at Port Matilda, on Saturday.

D. O. Downing, a candidate for the Republican nomination for Sheriff, was a Tyrone visitor on Saturday.

Miss Rose Fogel, of Homestead, who has been spending some time with her parents here, has returned to the western end of the State.

Mrs. Herman Waite, of Altoona, and Miss Alice McMonigal visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McMonigal, several days recently.

P. A. Hoover has gone to Tyrone, where he will undergo treatment for rheumatism, from which affliction he has been a sufferer for some time. We all hope he will be greatly benefited.

Howard.

Ezekiel Confer, of Yarnell, visited his many friends here over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Confer left on Monday afternoon for Buffalo, N. Y.

Craig Eckley, of Mill Hall, visited Charles DeHaas several days this week.

Hardware merchant A. A. Schenck is spending part of the week in Pittsburg on business.

Mrs. Mable Pletcher Mann and sister, Miss Alice Pletcher, visited friends in Bellefonte last week.

Mrs. H. C. Holter and Mrs. L. C. Thompson visited Mrs. Holter's brother, Andrew Hall, at Unionville last week.

Mrs. F. P. Crider, son Herbert and daughter Jeannette spent a few days at the home of Mrs. Crider's mother in Bellefonte.

Rev. J. C. Day, pastor of the Tyrone Presbyterian church and Moderator of the Huntingdon Presbytery, will preach in the Christian chapel tomorrow (Friday) evening. The general public is cordially invited to hear Rev. Day. A congregational business meeting will be held after the close of the preaching service.

Tomorrow (Friday) evening Prof. Pletcher, principal of the borough schools, will give a talk on Shakspeare. He will describe why Shakspeare wrote the plays he did and why he presented so many different types of men. He will not say anything about the play "Julius Caesar" on account of it being in the Teachers' Reading Course.

The W. C. T. U., of this place, will hold a Frances E. Willard memorial in the Reformed church on the evening of February 16th at 7.30 o'clock. The services will be appropriate to the memory of Miss Willard, the shining light of the Red Cross, and special preparations are being made to make it interesting throughout. The general public is cordially invited to be present.

Mrs. I. R. Williams, Idella, Laura and Frank Williams, Mrs. L. L. Williams, Miss Ruth Williams, Mrs. Wm. Lucas and baby, Mrs. J. M. Loder and son, Mrs. Rena Smith, Mrs. Anna Harvey and Mrs. Ross Stricker, of this place, Mrs. N. H. Johnston and Mrs. Carrie Stricker, of Blanchard, had a birthday surprise for Mrs. S. S. Williams, of Blanchard, last week. All reported having a good time.

On Thursday, February 16, the "Good Roads" train will stop at Howard from 3.30 to 5 o'clock p. m. This train is sent out through the co-operation of the Pennsylvania State College and the State. It will contain four cars which contain different implements for road making. There will be a course of lectures on road making and moving pictures will be shown of roads before and after improvements. All persons who are interested and desire good roads are invited to be present while the train is here.

On Friday evening, February 17, the Junior class of the High School will tender a reception to the Senior class. The class of 1911 consists of fourteen members, which is the largest class since the High School was established, being two more then the class of 1909. The following are the members of the 1911 class: Elfreida Confer, Tesse Confer, Florence Boone, Gertrude Herr, Nelle Confer, Arvilla Gardner, Gladys Holter, Helen Weber, Gertrude Thomas, Clair Leathers, George Pletcher, Russell Wagner, Frank Robb, Marion Pletcher.

The third literary exercises were held last Friday evening in the school building with a program that pleased every one present. The question for debate was, Resolved, that the world is growing morally better Although we believe the world is growing better, the negative side put up the better argument and won the debate by a vote of two to one. The judges were Hon. John A. Woodward, Russell Gardner and Christopher Pletcher. The remainder of the exercises were equally as good as the debate. The next literary meeting will probably be held on February 24.

On Tuesday the veterans of the G. A. R. of this place and some others tendered a surprise to their comrade James Tyson, who resides on the divide between here and Marsh Creek. The event was gotten up in honor of Mr. Tyson's 69th birthday anniversary. The ladies prepared a sumptuous chicken dinner and the veterans presented Mr. Tyson with a handsome and comfortable rocking chair. Other gifts were also received from the friends present. The day was most enjoyably spent and was the occasion for many pleasant recollections. The veterans present were comrades J. R. Pheasant, H. J. Pletcher, J. G. Tyson, David Tanyer, John Knarr, W. H. Neff, M. P. Holter, H. C. Holter and W. W. Rhoades. Others who enjoyed the day with the "boys" were J. F. Schenck, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Lucas, S. D. Tice, Sarah Tyson, Mrs. Joseph Herr, Miss Lucas, Belle Poorman and Clara Cole.

Lecture and Hospital Benefit.

We would repeat the notice given last week of Dr. Thos. C. VanTries' new lecture, entitled, "Matters Matrimonial. or Getting Married," to be delivered in the High School Auditorium, on Thursday evening, Feruary 16, at 8 p. m. This lecture is said to contain much wholesome advice and considerable fun.

John Reed is housed up with the grip.

E. W. Wellar, of Curtin, recently transacted business here.

Philip R. Rupp transacted business at State College a day or two ago.

Simon Ward and brother, Bert., did some work at State College recently.

Al. Whitmer is short a good horse that died quite suddenly on Monday night.

Howard Wright, of Tyrone, is here for a few days rest with his mother, on Water Street.

Farmer W. K. Corl is shy a valuable fresh cow that died of heart failure after but one day's illness.

Frank Smith has rented the J. F. McCormick farm, near Pine Hall, and will take possession April 1.

A. J. Peters and his good wife are rejoicing over the arrival of a cute little girl baby at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. From, of State College, were Sunday visitors at the J. Cal. Bailey home, on Main Street.

Mrs. Andrew Struble and Mrs. B. F. Homan, of State College, spent Sunday with the Struble family, west of town.

Mrs. Curt Meyers and little baby girl were welcome visitors at the Mrs. Peters home, during the early part of the week.

William Cramer, of Berks County, where he conducts a large dairy, is here casting his eagle eye about for an empty house.

J. H. Neidigh, who has been ill, is somewhat improved. Miss Lizzie Kimport, who also has been on the sick list, is better.

J. Homer Decker, of Bellefonte, was home last week to lend a helping hand at the big festival that proved such a pleasing success.

James Boal, an aged gentleman, had a fall on the ice last Friday, breaking one of his legs. He was removed to the Bellefonte hospital.

Smith, the barber, is sporting a new driving horse that is attracting much attention. The nag was fortunate in finding so good a home.

Walter Shutt and William Meyers each brought a load of visitors to town on Saturday evening, just to help swell the festival crowd. Over $130 was realized.

Harry McWilliams and Chester Johnson held the lucky numbers that called for a large rocker that the latter got, and a fine, large looking glass that went to Harry.

Oliver Gibboney with his cousin, Robert Stewart, were in town last Friday. Mr. Stewart went west and located in Nebraska 33 years ago, and as the saying goes, is "well heeled."

Raymond E Showers, W. Roger Robinson and John E. Arthur, students from State College, attended the church supper and festival. They had a good time and were welcome visitors.

That all-weather-wise little critter, the ground hog, is "making good;" mother earth is covered with a mantle of white, six inches deep, and the mercury has been sliding about the zero mark.

George McWilliam on Monday bought the old homestead farm, at Graysville, by mutual consent of the heirs. It is one of the choicest farms in Spruce Creek valley, and George is to be congratulated on his purchase.

Tate and Johnson have merged themselves into a painting, repairing and upholstering firm, in West Main Street. Give the young men a trial; they are deserving and efficient. Their work is all right and their prices are worth inspection.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Bohn are mourning the death of their only son, Forrest, aged 14 months. The child had been ill but four days, passing away on Sunday morning. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning, burial being made at Houserville.

James Oliver, a student at the Mercersburg Academy, is ill from appendicitis and an operation was performed last Sunday. The young man is improving nicely at this writing. His father, A. W. Oliver, immediately went to the young man's bedside and is still there.

The high school scholars will serve meals in the I. O. O. F. hall, on Saturday, also during the festival in the evening. Oysters and ice cream and cake, and in fact all that goes to make up a first-class meal. The district teachers' institute will be held in the hall on the same day, so that all may secure their meals without going out into the cold. Furthermore, it is for a worthy cause.

For the first time in 30 years George Bulich, a former town boy, is visiting in Centre and adjoining counties. He went west 30 years ago and after looking about finally located in Montana, where he is the owner of 1600 acres of farm land, on a part of which a town is being built. A railroad also runs through his lands, which insures his becoming rich in this world's goods. You scribe would like very much to meet him, as Mr. Bulich was one of his pupils in the Pine Grove grammar school, 1865 to 1868.

Miss Annie Lohr and Mrs. Belle Kimport planned and very successfully succeeded in surprising Mr. and Mrs. George Fortney, on their wooden anniversary, on Tuesday evening, at their home in Penns Valley. The crowd assembled at the S. E. Weber home and then swooped down on the Fortney mansion, so late as 9 o'clock in the evening, and completely taking the Fortneys by surprise. After order had been restored there was a general greeting, followed by a splendid feast. Mr. and Mrs. Fortney were the recipients of a generous contribution of articles in wooden ware. We hope that they may live to enjoy many more equally happy celebrations, including a golden wedding anniversary.

PURE OLIVE OIL

There is a great difference in so called Olive Oil—Some of it is adulterated with cotton seed oil, and while sold as Olive Oil at a much lower price than pure Olive Oil can be sold, YET IT IS NOT PURE.

In order that we can assure our customers of the absolute purity of the oil we sell them, we purchase our oil directly from the importers, in original sealed packages—This we immediately bottle and sell under our own label and can assure our customers that it is ABSOLUTELY PURE.

BUYING A PLACE

The Price Went Very High, Then Dropped

By LUCY K. WYNKOOP

A young man pulling a boat on a New England lake rested on his oars before a plank landing, on which stood a young woman evidently waiting for something.

"Beg pardon," he said to her, "is there a road behind those houses up there leading down to the railroad station at Parkville?"

"Yes, there is," was the reply.

The young man gaped about him as though interested in the lay of the land. He was really interested in the girl, who was quite comely. He was trying to think of some other question to ask her in order to keep up a conversation.

"Can you tell me who occupies that white house up on that crest?" he asked.

"Dr. Egerton."

There was another pause. The replies were so exactly to the point that they did not invite any furher questioning. However, the young man was not to be dropped.

"I'm looking for a place like that on this lake," he said, "I wonder if it could be bought."

"I suppose there's hardly a piece of property in the world that cannot be bought if the purchaser is willing to give a large enough price."

"I've looked over all these New England lakes with a view to buying a summer residence, and I like this bit of water better than any of them. My mother and sister won't go to hotels, and I don't like them myself. We wish a place where we can go as soon as spring opens and stay till late in the autumn."

The young lady evinced no interest in the young man's family plans and made no reply.

"That place up there would suit us exactly," he continued. "I would like to spend all the rest of my summers there. The view must be fine."

"There would be no harm in your trying to buy it," said the girl. "You might write a note to the owner asking if any sum you would be prepared to pay would be accepted."

"Thank you very much for the suggestion."

At that moment there were sounds of motorboat engine explosions, and a launch was seen making for the landing. It soon pulled up there under care of a single boatman. The young lady got aboard and, without so much as a look at the oarsman, was carried away.

"Mighty fine looking girl," he said to himself—"well but plainly dressed and with an air of 'being somebody.' I wonder who she is."

Jack Aborn was an enormously wealthy young man, having inherited the bulk of his father's property, and was accustomed to having anything money could buy that he desired. There was something unique in the Egerton place that struck his fancy. He couldn't very well build such a place. To begin with, he couldn't get the site; then it would require half a century to grow the trees. Besides, there was an old fashioned look about the whole place that could not be imitated. As the young lady had said, there would be no harm in trying to buy it, and he resolved to drop the owner a note asking if he would consider an offer.

He did so and received a reply written in a woman's hand as follows:

Dr. Egerton desires me to acknowledge the receipt of your note asking if an offer for this place will be considered and to say that it has been in the Egerton family so many years that there is at present no intention on the part of the owner to sell it. However, the doctor would like to know what it would bring. Yours truly, SARAH H. M'CARTHY, Secretary.

Aborn was sufficiently versed in business methods to waste no further time in correspondence; he called upon Dr. Egerton for a conference. He was received by Miss McCarthy, a middle aged lady, who told him that the doctor had gone to the city, but that she (the secretary) had charge of such business matters as required attention in the doctor's absence and had power to act. Aborn asked what the property would bring if offered openly for sale, and Miss McCarthy said she thought it would easily sell for $30,000. Whereupon Aborn made an offer of $40,000 for it. The secretary said that she would transmit the offer to her principal and would write him.

In due time a note came to Aborn stating briefly that his offer would not be accepted. He was quite ready to raise it, but did not like dealing through a third party. He called again on the doctor, but was again disappointed at not seeing him. The doctor was at home, but very busy. Aborn left word with the secretary that he would raise his bid to $50,000.

A reply to this came to him that astonished him. It was this:

Dr. Egerton desires me to inform Mr. Aborn that, inquiries having been made as to his financial standing and his ability to pay for any purchase he might make, the responses are perfectly satisfactory. But the doctor has also been informed that Mr. Aborn is one of those young men who, having inherited large means, think they can acquire anything they fancy. Surely there is no property without a price, but the price on the Egerton place is in proportion to Mr. Aborn's enormous fortune. It is enormously high. Yours truly, SARAH H. M'CARTHY.

Aborn was not only astonished at this reply; he was mad. At first he determined to drop the matter in contemptuous silence, but he was too irritated to do this. Besides, he was curious to discover what sort of man this doctor was who would go so far out of his way to insult a man whose only fault was a desire to possess the Egerton homestead. He determined to make one more effort to see him. He called, but again was obliged to be content with seeing the secretary, the doctor having again gone to the city on important business.

"Is this doctor," he asked in an irritated tone, "a regularly educated physician or a quack?"

"Dr. Egerton is something higher than even a regularly educated physician. The doctor's title is doctor of philosophy."

"What, then, does he do for a living?"

"The doctor is a sociologist."

"Oh, I see; has something to do with the running of the town charities."

"City charities principally."

"I know a man who has such a position, but he doesn't get much of a salary."

To this there was no response.

"Well," continued Aborn, "I wish you would tell this sociologist that he'd better cut out his degree till he has learned to treat his fellow men with proper civility. I had a perfect right to inquire whether he would sell his place and was led to believe that an offer would be acceptable even if not accepted. Then I receive an"—

"You have not yet offered enough. The doctor holds the property far above its intrinsic worth on account of its having been so long in the family."

Aborn, being angry, thought how nice it would be to offer a price this insulting sociologist could not afford to decline.

"Very well," he said, "tell him I'll give him $100,000 for it. When will he be at home?"

"Tomorrow."

"I'll call for the reply."

Aborn looked over the premises as he went away and determined to give double the price offered if necessary, buy adjoining tracts and make the place a paradise. Though he did not know it, all this fever to possess the place was born of his desire to have his own way in everything and to take revenge for having been told the truth.

The next morning Aborn was rowing on the lake when he met the girl he had seen on the landing. She was in a canoe.

"Beg pardon," he said, "but"—

The girl stopped paddling and waited.

"Perhaps you will remember suggesting that I write the owner of the white house up there asking if he would like to sell the place?"

"Well?"

"What kind of a man is he anyway?"

"Dr. Egerton is a very level headed person. Anything the doctor tells you has weight to it."

"H'm! He's no gentleman."

"The doctor's very plain spoken."

"I should think he is."

"I hope my suggestion hasn't led to anything disagreeable."

"Oh, the suggestion was very sensible as well as very kind."

"Is the place for sale?"

"I suppose it is. But for a man who gets probably $75 a month for running the poor he's mighty independent."

The girl made no reply to this. Indeed, she indicated that the dialogue didn't interest her by putting her paddle in the water. Aborn dipped his oars, and they pulled apart.

During the afternoon Aborn called at Dr. Egerton's to learn if $100,000 would buy a place worth not over a third of that amount. He had given up any expectation of seeing the doctor. Indeed, he rather thought it better he should not. He feared he would be tempted to punch the man's head. He was standing in the drawing room looking out through a window on the lake when, hearing a rustle of woman's clothing behind him, he turned, expecting to see the secretary. What was his amazement to see the girl he had met first on the landing and the same morning in a canoe. Her eyes were bubbling with mischief.

"W-w-hat does this mean?" he stammered.

"You called to see Dr. Egerton, did you not?"

"Yes."

"I am Dr. Egerton."

"You?"

"Yes. I am Cornelia Egerton, Ph. D."

"I see."

It was scarcely necessary for him to add anything to these two simple words, for it was evident that his eyes had been opened.

"Very stupid of me, wasn't it?"

"Be seated. I owe you an apology. The temptation was too strong for me."

"How about that information you got about me?"

"Made out of whole cloth."

"Your secretary?"

"My aunt."

"She said something about your running a city charity bureau."

"Heaven has blessed me with great wealth. I consider myself simply as its dispenser. In order to dispense it intelligently I studied sociology."

"Heaven has also given me great wealth, but it hasn't occurred to me to give it away till after my death, when I shall have no use for it."

"Better adopt my plan."

"Do you really own this house?"

"Yes, but I own another I like better. You may have this one for what I consider it worth—$20,000."

"Done!"

A year later the doctor went with the house.

For the Children

Wild Beasts and Birds Trained to the Saddle.

How would some of our young friends like to ride on the back of an ostrich or perhaps a wild boar? Most boys and girls would prefer the ostrich no doubt because of its fleetness, but it is unlikely that they'll have a chance on either. In England, however, there is a trainer of wild animals who has taught ostriches, zebras, cassowaries, wild boars and other creatures to carry riders on their backs. His name is Wingfield, and he lives in the town of Ampthill. He is a professional and trains wild animals for circuses and menageries, and so well does he have them under control that he frequently appears in the streets of the town mounted on one of his queer steeds. The beasts are thoroughly trained to the saddle, of course, before Mr. Wingfield or his assistants venture to appear on the public streets.

Game of Warning.

One of the players, having been chosen "warner," takes his stand at the place marked off as "home," the rest remaining at a little distance from it. The warner then calls "Warning!" three times and sallies forth with his hands clasped in front of him. In this position he must try to touch one of the other players, who strive to make him unclasp them by pulling his arms, drawing temptingly near, etc. If they succeed in making him loose his clasp or if he does so by inadvertence he must run home as fast as possible.

If he is caught before reaching his place as warner he must go out in the field and the one who touched him becomes warner. If he succeeds in touching any one without unclasping his hands the captive becomes his ally, and they both run home as fast as they can. Once home they are safe, and they then start out hand in hand, after calling the three warnings, and try to capture another without loosing their hold. Every captured player is added to their ranks, but every one must be taken home first before he is admitted to a share in the fight.

The line of warners thus increasing, the difficulty of evading capture grows greater at every accession to their ranks, but it is also a source of weakness, being unwieldy, and if the hands do not hold to each other tightly a player at large may break through at any weak point in the line and escape capture.

The field of play must be within rather narrow limits, for the only chance of the pursuing party to make captures is to pen or corner the fugitives. The last player to escape being taken becomes the next warner.

It Got Away.

It was a big fish, but it got away. Perhaps it would be better to say that the fishermen got away. The fish was a shark, thirty feet long, and it almost pulled the fishing schooner Albert Willard on a dangerous shoal. The boat was near George's bank, off the New England shore, when the shark came alongside. Captain Frank Dougherty ordered his men to throw harpoons into the shark's back, and they did so. They threw five harpoons and an ice pick, and all held fast. The shark started off at a great rate, dragging the heavy schooner at the ends of the harpoon lines as if it were a toy boat. After a two hour's fight with the "sea lawyer" the schooner was in danger of being drawn on a shoal, and so the lines were cut and the shark allowed to go.

Right to the Point.

When the lord chief justice visited Ireland he was often entertained by a hospitable gentleman who had an old butler, who took the privilege of speaking his mind freely. On one occasion the claret did not quite meet the host's approval, so he called the ancient butler and said:

"I told you you were to put the best claret on the table. Is this the best?"

"No, sorr, it is not the best claret," replied the old fellow, "but it's the best ye've got."—London Tit-Bits.

"'Isn't it, though?' said Mr. Whistler. 'I know in my case I should grow intolerably conceited.'"

Playing at Death.

The mother of Ivan Turgenev, the Russian novelist, was a trying person to live with, irritable, capricious and unreasonable. On Ivan's birthday in 1845, we are told in "Two Russian Reformers," after a day of festivities, Mme. Turgenev pretended to be dying. "She sent for her confessor and, placing before her the portrait of her son Ivan, exclaimed 'Adieu, Ivan! Adieu, Nicolas! Adieu, my children!' Then she ordered her forty servants and all the men employed about the house to say goodby to her. When they had filed out of the room Mme. Turgenev declared that she felt better and asked for tea. The next day the following 'order' appeared:

"'I give orders that tomorrow morning the disobedient servants, Nicolas Jacovlef, Ivan Petrof and Egor Kondratatief, shall sweep the court in front of my windows.'

"Those names were those of servants who had not appeared at her bedside, possibly because they were a little drunk that evening. 'Good for nothings! Drunkards!' exclaimed Mme. Turgenev. 'They rejoice at the death of their mistress!'"

The Bank Beat the Prince.

The Gentlewoman of London recalls the following story of the prince regent and Coutts' bank: "When George IV. was a regent he had a grudge against Coutts and determined to play a trick on the authorities. In those days even the great banks kept very small reserves of cash, and the playful prince thought out a plan to close Coutts'. So he sent his equerry round from Carlton House with a check for £100,000, fondly hoping that the bank would not be able to pay over the counter. The prince's trick, however, failed of success, as the wary old partner of the Strand bank proved equal to the occasion. He said at once to the equerry, 'How will his royal highness take the amount, in gold or notes?' The equerry hesitated and then said he had better go back to Carlton House to inquire. So he departed, and Coutts' had time to send to the Bank of England and get the cash required, but it was not needed, as the prince regent, seeing that Coutts' had got the best of him, did not return the check in question."

Eggs That Can't Be Found.

The eggs of some common birds of the present day have never been found. There is the robin snipe; its eggs have never been seen. An English zoologist kept a man going up and down the coast of Labrador for weeks purposely to get a robin snipe's egg, but it was in vain. The bird is known by thousands of people, but it breeds so far north and so remote from any civilization that no scientific observer can ever get to its nest ere the young are hatched and have taken to wing. The frigate bird that is so commonly seen at sea on the Pacific and off the West Indies is such a solitary bird and is so seldom seen in its nest during the hours of daylight that its egg is rare. It seems strange, but the eggs of so well known a bird as the sandpiper have never been found and are almost priceless.—London Globe.

Reversed the Proposition

Robert Wickliffe Woolley, the writer, found it necessary not long ago to take a trip west. On the dining car of the train he saw that he had in his pocket 10 cents in change, his smallest bank note being one for $50. He handed this to the porter, who went to the end of the car for a conference with the conductor.

"I'm very sorry about this," said the conductor, standing in front of Woolley and toying with the big bill, "but we haven't the change for $50. We'll just take your address and send you the change."

Woolley calmly reached over and took possession of the banknote. "You've got nothing on me," he said. "I'll take the address of the railroad and send the price of the meal."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Gordian Knot.

The famous Gordian knot was made of leather taken from some part of the harness belonging to the chariot of Gordius, king of Phrygia. It seems that this knot was so tied that the ends of the leather thong were not visible, hence the difficulty in loosening it. Many must have tried to untie it, for its fame as a "sticker" at last reached the great oracle, which declared that the lucky experimenter should be rewarded by the kingship of Persia. Alexander, trying his hand and meeting with no better success than the others, drew his sword and cut into the knot until he found the ends of it.

25c. GAS 25c.

I want to talk to the Business Firm or Individual who are interested in the cost of gas for lighting or cooking. I want to explain the advantages of

F. P. Gas Machines

1st.—I submit for your examination and study a few of the features of this wonderful gas-reducing proposition. To back up every claim I submit also a list of users of F. P. Gas Machines, to any one of whom you are respectfully referred.

2nd.—These Lighting and Cooking Plants have all been installed within the last 14 months.

3rd.—We gladly refer you to any user of our wonderful Little F. P. Gas Machine in regard to its merit-whether it is good or bad.

4th.—The Brilliancy, Candle Power, Simplicity, Cleanliness, and above all, the cost of operation for lighting and cooking should appeal to you.

5th.—We beat Electricity 75% in cost of operation, and about 20 times the Candle Power.

6th.—We beat Coal Oil about 66⅔% in cost of operation and about 100 times in Candle Power.

7th.—We beat City or Manufactured Gas four to eight times in Cost. Without danger of axphyxiation or explosion.

F. P. Gas costs from 20 to 25 cents per 1000 feet.

City or manufactured gas costs $1.50 to $2.00 per 1000 feet, and you are looking death in the face all the time.

8th.—80,000 F. P. Gas machines now in use, and you can make $1000 bonus if you produce one F. P. Gas machine that has ever blown up, much less, caused a fire.

9th.—The F. P. Gas Machine is Used and Sold in every Civilized Country on the globe for Cooking and Lighting.

10th.—The F. P. Gas Machines have been in use for 14 years and are still working. They are not new. They have passed through the experimental stages. They are as necessary in your homes or business places as clothing.

11th.—The F. P. Gas machine is the only gasoline machine on the market (and there are 188 different systems sold) that is allowed by the insurance agencies inside your building, free of excess insurance.

12th.—If your light bill is $150.00 each year and you can save 75% of it every year, in 20 years you will have saved enough to buy a farm.

Investigate this proposition. It pays to investigate. It is a worthy one.

GEO. RUNKLE SUSTAINED AS CAPTAIN OF "ADAMS"

Board of Managers of Schoolship Reject His Resignation.

HIS FRIENDS ELATED

Splendid Vindication for Bellefonte Boy Who Has Brilliant Career—Worked His Way From Lowest Berth to Command of Boat.

George P. Runkle's resignation as Captain of the Schoolship "Adams" has not been accepted by the Board of Managers. As a result, he is restored to full charge of that well known training ship. This will be good news to his numerous friends in Bellefonte, his former home.

Several week ago a Philadelphia newspaper created quite a stir by publishing an article to the effect that George had resigned as Captain of the "Adams." It later developed that there had been some friction, due chiefly to the efforts of an under-officer to gain command of the boat by forcing out George. The latter, on learning of the situation, promptly turned in his resignation. The Board of Managers instituted an investigation and on learning the facts refused to accept the resignation, thus vindicating Captain Runkle.

Few young men have had a more brilliant career than has been achieved by Captain Runkle. Beginning at the bottom of the ladder, he worked himself up until in a few short years he had won full command of the old training ship "Saratoga." Subsequently the Saratoga" was abondoned and the "Adams" was pressed into service as a training ship. Captain Runkle is a handsome, manly, well-built fellow and is especially well fitted for the life of a sailor. Since entering the service of the training ship he has visited almost every point of interest in the world. He has numerous souvenirs of his trip to foreign ports. These include gifts from foreign officials and commanders of other boats, presented in testimony of their high esteem for a former Bellefonte boy.

Funeral of Miss Collins.

The funeral of Miss Sarah Collins took place Friday morning from the Catholic church, at 8 o'clock. Quite a large number of friends were present to attend the last rites and ceremony as conducted by Rev. Father P. McArdle. After the services at the church the remains were removed to the depot, where they were taken to Ebensburg in a special car for interment.

On account of the long and severe illness of both Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Shoemaker they were unable to leave their residence but, having a large circle of friends here nothing was neglected in the arrangements for the funeral.

Those who accompanied the remains to the final resting place were Dr. C. M. Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Fenlon, Mr. and Mrs. John McGovern, the Misses Collins, Miss Blanche Henry, Miss Mame Ceader, Philip and Margaret Shoemaker, Rev. Father O'Hanlon, Thomas Todsock and Mr. Todd, the latter being from Scottdale.

Those who officiated as pallbearers in Bellefonte were Joseph L. Montgomery, C. M. Parrish, Joseph Ceader, L. A. Schaeffer, John M. Shugert, P. Gray Meek, William T. Kelley and W. Homer Crissman.

Postmaster Relieved of Duty.

A stir was caused in political circles when it was learned that Byron A. Weaver, postmaster of Montoursville, had been relieved of duty by order of the Second Assistant Postmaster General and the office placed in charge of his bondsmen, William Lucas and Albert Weaver. Postmaster Weaver has been a prominent figure in county politics, allied with what is known as the Deemer faction of the Republican party. He has been postmaster at Montoursville ten years. His bondsmen declined to make any statement.

A postoffice inspector recently made an investigation of stamp sales at the Montoursville office and obtained affidavits from several persons regarding large sales of stamps alleged to have been made by Postmaster Weaver for the purpose of increasing the salary of the office, which has been raised from $1,000 to $1,700 under his administration. The stamps are alleged to have been sold to firms in this city and elsewhere. Some of the transactions are said to have been on a larger scale, amounting to several thousand dollars.

Backache, Rheumatism, Nervousness

Mean disordered kidneys. Foley Kidney Pills have helped your neighbor; they will also help you. Mrs. G. Ake, Altoona, Pa., says, "For several months I suffered with my kidneys and pains in the small of my back. It was painful for me when stooping and made me dizzy with severe headaches. My kidney action was irregular and painful and when I read of Foley Kidney Pills I decided to try them. After taking them a short period all kidney misery left as did also the pains in the back. Those dark spots before my eyes have disappeared and in general the pills made me feel exceptionally good. I desire to recommend them highly to anyone in need of a kidney medicine." Sold by C. M. TWICE TOLD TESTIMONY

Bellefonte People Are Doing All They Can For Fellow Sufferers.

Bellefonte testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Bellefonte who suffer from bad backs and kidney ills. Lest any sufferer doubt that the cures made by Doan's Kidney Pills are thorough and lasting, we produce confirmed proof—statement from Bellefonte people saying that the cures they told of years ago were permanent. Here's a Bellefonte case:

Mrs. James Corl, 361 E. Bishop St., Bellefonte, Pa., says: "A member of my family used Doan's Kidney Pills in 1907, procuring them from Green's Pharmacy Co. and a complete cure of kidney complaint was effected. At that time we publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills and as there has been no return attack of the trouble, we again give this remedy a word of praise. You are welcome to publish this statement for the benefit of other kidney sufferers."

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The "Pen" Filled Up.

It has been some time since Bellefonte has been afflicted with nightly rowdyism. Policemen Dukemen and Justice have been successful in keeping down annoyances of this kind for several months, but on Saturday night there seemed to be a spasmotic out-break of disturbances and the lock-up was crowded to its capacity.

About 10 o'clock "Dipper" Reed and Edward Daley had some trouble when "Dipper" up with a bottle and struck Daley between the eyes. He made a hole in his forehead and the blood squirted in all directions. "Dipper" then made his escape to parts unknown. The officers went after him but he could not be found. Daley is getting along as well as can be expected.

The next onslaught was later in the night, about 12 o'clock. The two Italians, who have a shoemaker shop under the Bush Arcade, were carrying a case of beer over the bridge, near the "Watchman" office, when several fellows pounced down upon them, their purpose being to get away with the refreshments. Before they had accomplished this, Officer Dukeman appeared on the scene and frustrated their plans. In the scuffle one of the Italians was slightly injured and began crying. Dukeman soon rounded up the entire party and placed them in the "pen."

After they were in there for a short time two of the prisoners began tearing up things in general. Later Officer Dukeman went back and found the place in bad shape. He made the boys put things back in the same shape they found them. There was a howl, but he made 'em come to time.

A Remarkable Showing.

"The Republican" speaks for itself, thus it is not required of the editor to stand on the housetop and herald forth rosy sentiment in self praise or recommendation. While the above is true we feel it's our duty to thank the public for their encouragement and patronage. "The Republican" is receiving in every department. The month of January has been one of remarkable advancement. The subscription list is growing steadily, and never in the history of the paper has the columns been filled with advertisements that are so fruitful of good results.

This is all greatly appreciated by the editor and only makes us more determined to exercise every possible effort to further improve the paper. Our aim is to make "The Republican" second to none. To this end we ask our friends to help us by letting us know anything in the news line that you may hear each week, and we will do the rest. We want to give all the news, no matter who it may interest, and if we happen to miss any news item it can be taken as a fact that it was not done intentionally.

This week we have placed in our job department a practical man who understands the art of getting out first class work. We have placed at his disposal the best and latest series of type that money can buy, so that any job work left at this office will receive the proper care and attention. A trial will be conclusive that the above is correct.

The Colyer Mountain Farm Sold.

The Colyer farm, in the Seven Mountains, was sold to David L. Geary, of near Red Mill, who will convert it into a pasture lot. The farm contains about one hundred and sixty acres, with good buildings, which were erected by the late William Colyer during his ownership of the farm. The price paid by Mr. Geary was $1500, the seller being George R. Meiss, of Colyer. The latter, during the past few years, planted largely to potatoes, the yields being very fair.

Suffragetts Against Kissing.

Mrs. Gabriel (ominous name) member of the Just Government League, whatever that is, and prominent Baltimore suffragette, which we all understand, comes out against kissing. She declares it to be unsanitary, and while she regrets that her organization has taken no official action in the premises, she announces that there is "a decided anti-osculation sentiment among us." It may seem unkind to say so, but most suffragettes do not suffer in a sanitary way from kisses. They are too apt to be unattractive. There are, we suppose, some good looking and warm-hearted suffragettes, although we have never seen any, but the average suffragette is what Shakespeare calls "a maid not vendible."

However, the worst is yet to come. Says Mrs. Gabriel: "The utter meaninglessness of the performance, to say nothing of the unsanitary element of it, should have killed the kiss long ago." Here is where the esteemed lady is wrong. Kisses are not meaningless. They often mean a great deal Only last week a judge held that a kiss misapplied was cause for a divorce. Many a man has kissed a girl in a platonic way only to find that he was considered engaged. Moreover, the kisses that are not given have a vast amount of meaning. The man who goes home at night and does not kiss his wife finds out that it means a great deal. Or if he kisses another woman it means much more.

It is absurd to say that kisses have no meaning. They are the visible expression of an inward meaning. They are of many kinds. Some are merely formal, while others go to the other extreme. We will admit that some kisses should be abolished. There is no greater waste of good raw material in the world than the kissing of women by women. Here is apt to be treachery, and in here in a well-regulated bisexual kiss.

But otherwise we think that osculation will remain for a few thousand years in spite of all the reformers and all the germ specialists who ever lived. Without pretending to exact knowledge on the subject, it is a fair inference that Adam didn't eat that apple until Eve had beguiled him with a kiss. It is a way women have. Between kisses and tears they get all there is in it for them and at times a great deal more than is good for them.

If suffragettes want to reform this world they should turn their attention to directions where success is possible unless, as may be the case, they are simply talking to get a certain amount of notoriety in the secret belief that men are doing pretty well for them after all.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Real Estate Transfers.

An Aged Resident.

Mr. Philip Berry is one of Mill Hall's oldest and highest esteemed citizens, having lived in that town since April 1, 1863, and residing in the same house ever since his removal to Mill Hall. Mr. Berry was born on December 27, 1825, in Bald Eagle township, Clinton county, and has lived there and within four miles of his birth place all his life.

Since residing in Mill Hall he has occupied many offices of trust and honor, not one of which did he seek nor did he ever ask a man to vote for when placed in nomination for an office by the citizens. He has been burgess, street commissioner, overseer of poor, assessor, school director, tax collector, borough treasurer and school treasurer, holding office for over a half century.

Mr. Berry is in his 86th year and has never traveled a mile on a railroad, excepting the trolley between Mill Hall and Lock Haven.—Lock Haven Express.

THEY EAT NO BREAD.

Places Where the Poorer People Have to Use Substitutes.

There are regions wherein the poorer classes or peasantry eat little or no bread. Baked loaves of bread are practically unknown in many parts of southern Austria and Italy and throughout the agricultural districts of Roumania.

It is said that in the village of the Oberstelermark, not far from Vienna, bread is never seen, the staple food being sterz, a kind of porridge made from ground beech nuts, taken at breakfast with fresh or curdled milk, at dinner with broth or fried lard and with milk again for supper. This dish is also known as heiden and takes the place of bread not only in the Austrian district named, but in Carinthia and in many parts of the Tyrol.

In northern Italy the peasants affect a substitute for bread called polenta, a porridge made of boiled grain. Polenta is not, however, allowed to "granulate," like Scotch porridge or like the Austrian sterz, but is boiled into a solid pudding, which is cut up and portioned out with a string. It is eaten cold as often as it is hot and is in every sense the Italian's daily bread.

A variation of polenta called mamaliga is said to be the favorite food of the poorer classes in Roumania. Mamaliga is like polenta in that it is made of boiled grain, but it is unlike the latter in one important respect—the grains are not allowed to settle into a solid mass, but are kept distinct, after the fashion of oatmeal porridge.—New York Herald.

COMPRESSED ICE.

Sinks In Water and Crumbles Into Powder When Warmed.

All know that ordinary ice will float. This relative lightness of ice with respect to water is due to expansion of the water at the moment of freezing. If water is frozen under immense pressure it seems that this expansion is prevented and ice heavier than water is produced.

G. Tamman has prepared this modification, which he calls Ice III., as follows: He compressed water to 3,000 kilograms (6,614 pounds) and cooled it in solid carbon dioxide snow and finally in liquid air. Under these conditions a colorless, transparent ice is formed. It is much denser than ordinary ice and heavier than water; consequently it sinks when placed in water. Ice III. is very unstable, and on slight warming it swells out and breaks up into a dense white powder. The volume of the resulting powder is apparently four to eight times that of the original ice. This powder formed by the breaking up of the dense form is nothing more than ordinary ice in the form of fine crystals, which, of course, on further warming melt at zero degrees centigrade.

Experiments on Ice III. show that it is impossible to obtain it by separation from water at atmospheric pressure and then suddenly cooling. There would never be a possibility of this unstable form of solid water being formed in nature.—New York Tribune.

A Prosaic Interpretation.

Professor Brander Matthews of Columbia in one of his brilliant addresses on the drama said of an unimaginative and prosaic dramatist:

"He it was, I am sure, who in his youth on being asked in examination what Shakespeare meant by the phrase 'sermons in stones' wrote in reply:

" 'When passing by a tombstone you may learn the name and the dates of birth and death of the departed one and also from the inscription a valuable moral lesson from his or her life. Walking along a road you may see from the milestones the number of miles to the nearest towns and thus acquire geographical information. Heaps of stones by the roadside indicate that repairs are to take place and so indicate a lesson in neatness.' "—Detroit Free Press.

An Author's Insight.

There is no surer mark of genius than the intuitive insight into characters and social conditions of which the author has no personal experience. "What does Ben know of dukes?" asked homely old Isaac Disraeli when he heard the title of his son's latest novel. Trollope wrote inimitably of bishops and deans when he had never been in a cathedral close in his life. Young Disraeli wrote so well about the great ones of the earth whom he had never seen that the critics busied themselves in finding "keys" to "Vivian Grey" and "The Young Duke."—London Saturday Review.

A Touch of Family Life.

When the country youth proposed to the city girl he received the conventional assurance that she would be his sister. It happened that this youth had sisters at home and knew exactly his privileges. So he kissed her. At this juncture she availed herself of the sisterly right to call out to father that brother was teasing her. Father responded in good, muscular earnest. Then the new brother and sister relation was dissolved by mutual consent.—Judge.

Only That.

"I don't know whether I ought to recognize him here in the city or not. Our acquaintance at the seashore was very slight."

"You promised to marry him, didn't you?"

"Yes, but that was all."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The only failure a man ought to fear is failure in cleaving to the purpose he sees to be best.—George Eliot.

Here and There.

John M. Bullock spent Sunday in Tyrone, as the guest of his sister, Mrs. Frank Lukenbach.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sommerville, of Robertsdale, Pa., spent Sunday in Bellefonte, the guests of Henry S. and Miss Mary H. Linn.

T. J. Moore, who resides west of Howard, accompanied by one of his daughters, Miss Corda E. Moore, visited Bellefonte between trains on Saturday. While in town they called at "The Republican" office.

It is said a boy going to school in the Bellefonte High School building, in writing a composition on Patrick Henry, said: "He married when quite young and then made a speech in which he said, give me liberty or give me death."

We are very glad to this week enroll W. B. Coder, of near Howard, as a regular subscriber to "The Republican." Mr. Coder a day or two ordered the paper for the coming year and also enclosed a neat one dollar bill to pay for the same.

A genial visitor to "The Republican" office a day or two ago was Michael Fravel, of Blanchard, who dropped in to pay his respects and also to leave with us a one dollar bill, marking up the date on the label of his copy of the paper to almost Santa Claus time in 1911.

Rev. Dr. Allison J. Platts, of Wilkinsburg, arrived in Bellefonte on Monday afternoon. As usual he was in the very best of humor, and stated that he was very much delighted with the change. He has a fine congregation, and everthing promises a most excellent and agreeable pastorate.

John Noll, the Bellefonte laundryman, is lamenting the loss of a penknife. He either lost it or absent-mindedly put it down and forgot it. He prized it, first, because it was a gift from the late Edward Hoy, and secondly, because it was made from good material. The finder will be justly recompensed by returning it to Mr. Noll.

Mrs. Thomas Merryman, of near Port Matilda, this week becomes enrolled as a subscriber to "The Republican," which is the best plan she could adopt to insure getting all the news during the coming year. We trust that "The Republican" will continue to be a regular visitor to the Merryman home for many years to come.

Prof. E. H. Meyer, of Boalsburg, who has been teaching in McKeesport for the last three years, has been offered a position as teacher of mathematics in the Barringer High School, in Newark, N. J. The position carries quite a nice salary and Mr. Meyer is to be congratulated upon receiving such an important offer.

On Saturday we had a pleasant call from Chester A. Moore, of Howard. He is representing the bond department of the American Real Estate Co., of New York City. This company is a large concern, carrying with it the very best of references. Mr. Moore is an energetic young man, who will appreciate any help given him.

Rev. Francis Laird, of the Olivet Presbyterian church, of Harrisburg, on Sunday, last, preached two excellent sermons in the Bellefonte Presbyterian church. Next Sunday Dr. Flack, of Scranton, Moderator of the Synod of Pennsylvania, will occupy the pulpit. He is a fine talker and should be greeted by large congregations.

Harry Badger, the efficient tinner for W. T. Twitmire, has entered the field as a candidate for nomination for Overseer of the Poor in Bellefonte Borough, on the Republican ticket. His formal announcement appears in another column of "The Republican." Harry is a splendid young man and if elected would render a good account of himself.

Jacob Marks, of Bellefonte, had not been feeling well for the last year, although he was able to be about. On Monday morning he was feeling badly and remained in his room, at the Brockerhoff House. He gradually became worse, until about 5 o'clock, when he was taken to the hospital, where shortly afterward, he was successfully operated upon for appendicitis.

Last week we told through our columns of the destruction of the Woman's College of Maryland, in which Misses Mary Hicklen and Alice Lowry, of Bellefonte, were students. Some people in Bellefonte who were acquainted with the history of the institution were of the opinion that the school would be a thing of the past. Dr. Charles W. Gallagher, the owner and president of the school, says it will be rebuilt.

On Saturday morning a tramp, about 19 years of age, appeared at the residence of Dr. M. A. Kirk and asked for work, stating he wanted to earn money enough to get to Lock Haven, where he had relatives. The doctor had forgotten that his front pavement was full of ice and needed cleaning, but before the young hobo left the Doctor made the proposition to him that he would purchase him a ticket to Lock Haven if he would return him the money when he reached his destination. "Weary Willie" agreed to the proposition, but when the train reached Bellefonte the "Knight of the Road" failed to materialize. What the tramp wanted was money enough to "wet his whistle."

When Reuben Lucas, of Howard, dropped into "The Republican" office on Friday of last week his face was wreathed in smiles and he appeared to be exceptionally happy about something. He had been spending a part of the day with his sister, Mrs. John Meese, and while we surmised that the occasion had some particular significance we were rather surprised to learn that he was celebrating his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary. No one would suspect that Mr. Lucas had lived three quarters of a century, for he is as strong and vigorous as many men of sixty years. More than that, Mr. Lucas is not only able to, but in reality does, go out and engage in a hard day's work and think nothing of it. He served as a soldier in the last nine months of the Civil war, participating in some of the hardest battles of that bloody conflict that was necessary to preserve the flag of the Union. Apparently he was endowed with a remarkable constitution for today he looks and acts like a man who thus far has never thought about getting old. We extend our congratulations and also the hope that Mr. Lucas may live to celebrate many more equally happy anniversaries.

Mrs. Nora Sheldon entertained at bridge on Tuesday.

Mrs. John Curtin entertained, on Tuesday evening, last, at her home on West Linn Street.

Mrs. Nora Sheldon, Mrs. Elizabeth Calloway and Mrs. John N. Lane assisted Mrs. S. C. Burnside, at her birthday anniversary reception, on Saturday, last.

Mrs. C. G. Spicher, of Wilkinsburg, arrived in Bellefonte on Saturday afternoon and is now the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Heckman, on Lamb Street.

Wallace H. Gephart, the efficient president and Superintendent of the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania, was a recent visitor in Washington, D. C., returning home yesterday.

Mrs. W. Fred Reynolds on Monday entertained in honor of Mrs. Eugene Montgomery, of Lancaster, a sister of Col. Reynolds. Mrs. Montgomery returned to her home on Tuesday.

While Russell Mallory was shoeing one of Ed. Rhoad's heavy horses last Friday the animal jerked its foot out of Russell's hold and brought it down upon his foot badly smashing one of his toes.

Foreign Mission Day services will be held in the Reformed church, on Sunday morning, next, at 11 o'clock. In the evening Rev. Dr. A. M. Schmidt, will take as his subject, "Abraham Lincoln."

Mrs. Dorsey Green and her daughter, Miss Bessie, of Buffalo Run, went to Lock Haven recently to visit her son, Dr. George Green. While there Mrs. Green became ill, being threatened with pneumonia. It is said she is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Franks, of Pitcairn, are rejoicing over the arrival of a little daughter, which came on Sunday to brighten the household. The happy mother was formerly, Miss Helen Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton, of Bellefonte.

George Robb, of Coleville, has made application for a position at the Huntingdon Reformatory George is an old soldier and worthy of anything that can be done for him along this line. He is an energetic gentleman and his work will give perfect satisfaction. We hope he may meet with success.

Tuesday Miss Mary H. Linn, of Bellefonte, left for Robertsdale, to make a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Sommerville. Miss Linn and Miss Elizabeth Blanchard, with several other friends, are thinking of taking a trip to Scotland some time this summer, but as yet no definite arrangements have been made.

Mrs. David Patton, of Huntingdon, returned home on Tuesday after having been the guest of Miss Lida Morris for several days. Several functions were given in Mrs. Patton's honor during her stay here. Miss Morris entertained on Saturday afternoon. On Monday evening W. Harrison Walker entertained at the Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Garman, of Tyrone, arrived in Bellefonte on Tuesday and are the guests of Mrs. Rebie Cruse. Al. looks like a real young man since he took unto himself such a pleasing and pretty bride. They are always welcome to Mr. Garman's old home town, where he fought and won many a political battle. When they downed him they always had to get up in the morning—and then sometimes they were up too late.

Boyd Musser, son of William Musser, of Bellefonte, who has been working in the Pennsylvania Railroad shops, at Altoona, went to Pittsburg recently to consult a specialist about his hearing. It is thought that the motion and working of the machinery is causing him to become deaf. He is a young man who held a good position, and it would certainly be very discouraging if he would be compelled to give it up.

It will be remembered that several years ago Ex-Senator Henry Gassaway Davis, of West Virginia, was in Bellefonte, and his visit here was looked upon with considerable significance. The other day the unusual sight of a United States Senator conducting his grandfather, an ex-Senator, about the floor of the Senate was witnessed, when Senator Davis Elkins, of West Virginia, escorted Henry Gassaway Davis through the chamber. He looks like a man of 60 years, although he is going on his 88th year. While in Bellefonte he found no trouble in ascending the long brown stone steps in front of the Hastings mansion.

Several months ago William McFarlane left a position at the Bellefonte Electric Co., plant and went to Parksville, Tenn., where he accepted a place with a company which was building a new electrical plant. A recent letter to some of his friends in Bellefonte states that "Billy" is now holding down a Government job. He has charge of part of the electrical machinery in the erection of a large steel bridge over the Mississippi river. If he shows up well, while in the employment of "Uncle Sam," he can count upon it that he will come out O. K. The next thing William will come East in a $5000 automobile, which will make his friends here sit up and take notice. We are glad to hear of his success.

Frank Sausserman, the barber whose reputation for first class work is Statewide, wants it distinctly understood that he is opposed to having his barber shop used as an emergency restaurant. Frank is an obliging fellow, but some times his good nature is imposed upon. There was an instance of this on Saturday evening, last, when a man dropped into the shop to be shaved and have his hair cut. The customer had been making some eleventh-hour purchases, including several dozens of eggs. He had planned a little lunch of hard-boiled eggs on reaching home. The problem before him was how to get shaved, have his hair cut and also get his hard-boiled eggs and still get to bed before midnight. What do you suppose the fellow did? He borrowed a towel from Frank, wrapped the eggs in it and then dropped the bundle into the deep hot water tank in the barber shop. While he was being shaved and having his hair cut, his eggs were cooking. By the time he was out of the barber's chair the eggs were hard-boiled, and the fellow went his way rejoicing. Frank, who by the way has become enrolled as a subscriber to "The Republican," wants it understood that if necessary his shop may be used as a Red Cross hospital, but that in the future all customers must do their cooking at home.

F. Milford Pletcher, of Blanchard, greeted friends in town yesterday.

E. K Rhoads, the well known coal dealer, is nursing a sprained ankle.

Mrs. Harry Keller entertained at dinner, on Saturday of last week, covers being laid for ten.

Mrs. Thompson, wife of Dr. J. A. Thompson, today entertained at her home, at Port Matilda.

Mrs. Elizabeth Potter gave a flinch party on Tuesday evening, last, at her home on East Linn Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Williams this week visited the former's cousin, Mrs. Belle Scott, at Altoona.

Mrs. Jacob Gross entertained her card club, on Thursday evening of last week, at her home, on Bishop Street.

James A. Decker, of Pine Grove Mills, was in Bellefonte on Wednesday transacting business and meeting friends.

Captain and Mrs. F. Willis this week arrived in Bellefonte and have assumed charge of the Salvation Army work here. Their last charge was at Atlanta, Georgie.

It it with pleasure we note that L. H. McQuistion, of Bellefonte, is recovering from his recent serious illness which led some of his friends to think it was all over.

On Tuesday William Noll, of Pleasant Gap, was in Bellefonte hobnobing among the Democratic leaders with the idea of coming out for either the democratic nomination for Commissioner or Register.

On next Wednesday evening Al. Martin's Uncle Tom's Cabin will be the attraction at Garman's opera house. This is one of the best shows of the kind on the road and deserves a good patronage. The specialities are all up to the Queen's taste. The price is 50 and 25 cents.

Jomes T. Boal, of Boalsburg, met with an accident on Thursday morning, last. After coming from the Garman House, in Bellefonte, he fell on the icy pavement, dislocating the right hip bone. He was taken to the hospital where he is getting along as well as can be expected. He is a mute and well on in years.

On Wednesday morning Louis Daggett called at "The Republican" office and inquired for Editor Dorworth. When informed he was out, "Louie" wanted to know "how much." If he knew of the gratifying business that is being done here he would surely come to the conclusion that while the editor was "out" he was also "in."

Acquilla Williams, of Port Matilda, was a Bellefonte visitor yesterday and before returning home called at "The Republican" office. During the day he visited the Bellefonte hospital, calling to inquire for his brother-in-law, James Moore, of Half-moon Township, who last week badly cut his right foot while splitting railroad ties.

Frank Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Smith, left Bellefonte on Tuesday afternoon for Parksville, Tenn., where he will work for an electrict light company. It is the same company that "Billy" McFarlane worked for after he left Bellefonte. Frank is a good boy but how will a certain friend in Bellefonte get along without him?

Johnny Miller, from Walker township, one of the several Democratic aspirants for nomination for County Treasurer, was in Bellefonte yesterday trying to find out what the party bosses have fixed up to upset him this time. The Democratic bosses have lots of use for Johnny until he comes out for office, then they give him the merry laugh.

Last week D. F. Fortney, of Bellefonte, was in Harrisburg in the interest of the new school code. What he didn't like about it he made it known in no uncertain sound. He was there as a delegate to the State Directors Association and was honored by being placed on the committee on resolutions. He was also chosen a delegate to the State Educational Convention.

Henry Lyon, of Norfolk, Va., and Charles Lyon, of Danville, arrived in Bellefonte on Tuesday afternoon to spend a couple of days with their brothers, William A. and Jacob Lyon. It has been many years since "Hen." was one of the boys in Bellefonte, who kept 'em guessing. He is now in business in the South and making money hand over fist, the intelligence of which cannot help but be pleasing to his friends.

Thursday afternoon William Thompson, of Centre Furnace, drove his spirited team of horses to Lemont, to meet some friends who were coming on the train. While throwing blankets over the horses they frightened and ran away. They evidently were trying to keep up with Harry Cook's train, as when last seen by the passengers the horses were going at breakneck speed through Oak Hall. They were finally caught without any special damage being done.

Rev. C. C. Shuey, of Bellefonte, is greatly interested in a grand revival going on at Axe Mann. People in that vicinity seem wonderfully interested in the souls. The ingathering to the church is very incouraging. William Crust, one of the members, gratuituosly placed in the church an acetylene lighting plant for which the members are truly thankful. For years the church was dimly lighted with coal oil lamps, thus the transformation is extremely radical, and one that is being appreciated.

On Tuesday Miss Kate Sprankle, a trained nurse from Tyrone, brought two children to Bellefonte and placed them in the Pruner Orphanage. Their names are Mary and Sterle Gunsallus, and their ages are 8 and 5 years. This makes five children in the home, which is very promising. There is no grander institution in this vicinity and our people should take more than usual interest in it. We hope the time will come when the orphanage will be crowded with children who will receive the proper training for life's duties.

In the window of the Variety Shop, of which G. R. Spigelmyer and Homer Barnes are the genial and obliging proprietors, are found a number of very handsome and exquisite valentines. In the midst of them is the attractive and becoming portrait of Dr. T. C. VanTries, advertising his lecture on "Marriage and things Matrimonial." The next thing some fair and beautiful damsel will come that way and insist on purchasing the Doctor's picture and placing it on her dressing case. We will guarantee she would secure the best picture in the window, and that's no fabrication. They say Dr. VanTries was after Mr. Spigelmyer with a gun, but that's a mistake.

V. C. Gullickson, Agent,
Royal Union Mutual Life Ins. Co.,
Northwood, Iowa.

Dear Sir:--

I want to thank you for handing me to-day $3116.40 in a check from your company for this amount as payment in full on policy No. 20525 held by my late husband, H. L. Myli.

Please extend to the Royal Union Mutual Life my appreciation for the courteous treatment I have received from it in the payment of this policy. Though the amount of this policy was but $3000.00, you will remember that my husband remitted the last premium promptly as was his custom several days before it was due, and as his death occurred after the company had received the premium, but before premium was due, the company has very kindly returned the amount of this premium, viz, $116.40 making a total of $3116.40. Again thanking you and the company for this kind treatment, I am,

Respectfully yours,
(Signed) CARRIE MYLI,
Beneficiary.
